January FY19

Customer & Community Engagement Overview and Update

Each month, we update the board on Customer & Community Engagement activities for the previous and current months. The purpose is to keep you apprised on these activities so that you are knowledgeable about JEA's efforts to keep our customers informed, to assist them in the management of their utility services and to be a good corporate citizen.

Customer Communications

In December, we focused messages on JEA eBill, Neighbor to Neighbor, electric safety, and energy conservation.

- JEA eBill is JEA's version of electronic billing. Customers on eBill receive a bill notification email in their inbox each month when their bill is ready to be viewed. The program allows customers to receive their bill anytime, anywhere. This is extremely helpful to those who travel or are on the go.
- The Neighbor to Neighbor Fund is a way for customers and employees to provide temporary assistance to customers unable to pay their utility bill during a financial crisis. The Neighbor to Neighbor Fund helps elderly, disabled, and those less fortunate keep the lights on and water running.
- There are many things people can do to stay safe around electricity. From replacing frayed or damaged cords to not overloading electrical outlets, by providing our customers with meaningful safety tips they may be able to prevent an injury or home fire.
- Energy conservation is not only a way to save on energy costs, it is also good for the environment. This month we focused messaging on using LED bulbs which are more efficient and last longer than incandescent bulbs. By encouraging our customers to switch household and seasonal lights to LED bulbs, we are helping them to not only save energy, but also money.

Community Engagement

JEA employees participated in numerous Ambassador events and Volunteer activities throughout the month of December, with Ambassadors participating in 21 activities and 180 volunteers serving 791 hours in the community. Many employees also helped to spread holiday cheer by participating in JEA's annual toy drive and holiday family adoption. JEA employees adopted 23 families which served 92 people, doubling the number of families adopted from 2017 to 2018.

JEA Ambassadors

In December, JEA Ambassadors participated in multiple community events including Biscayne Elementary Science Under the Sea and St. Clair Evans Science Night. Ambassadors conducted two facility tours and delivered seven presentations to groups including the Marine Science Institute and the West Riverside Academy. Ambassadors also had the opportunity to teach students about entreuprenurialship and careers in the STEM fields at Oceanway and Biscayne Elementary Schools and LaVilla School of the Arts.

Employee Volunteerism

In December, JEA employees volunteered 791 hours in the community, connecting with customers and assisting with numerous nonprofit projects and activities. From volunteering at the Salvation Army Toy Shop to assisting with the Catholic Charities Turkey Giveaway, JEA employees gave generously of their time and talents for the benefit of our community.

JEA employees also volunteered time at Holiday Festival for Seniors, First Coast No More Homeless Pets (FCNMHP) Mega Pet Adoption, Tour De Cure American Diabetes, USO No Dough Dinner, Aging True, Catty Shack Ranch, Callahan Food Distribution, Red Cross, Feeding NE FL Food Bank, Holiday Zoo Party for Foster Families, City Rescue Mission (CRM) Annual Christmas Luncheon, Beaches Emergency Assistance Ministry (BEAM) Food Bank and HabiJax Builds.

In addition to volunteering time, JEA employees also donated over 400 toys to benefit the children of Developmental Learning Center (DLC) Nurse and Learn. Additionally, some JEA employees came together to adopt 23 families for the holiday season that served 92 individual recipients through Family Support Services, the Department of Children & Families and Hubbard House. This kindness and generosity shown by our JEA employees had a huge impact on the recipients, by fulfilling basic needs and holiday wishes of these families.

JEA employees take great pride in the Ambassador and Volunteer programs, which are a tangible demonstration for our customers and our community of the "Heart of JEA."

GUIDING PRINCIPLES ACCELERATING UTILITY INNOVATION

12.4.18

Vision

Why we exist and who we want to be in the future

Improve lives by accelerating innovation

Mission

How we are going to pursue our vision and what we need to do today to get there

Provide the best service by becoming the center of our customer's energy and water experience

Corporate Measures

Our mission will be guided by and evaluated against how we as employees drive these four basic Corporate Measures of JEA's value

The fundamental goal is to maximize each value both now and in the future:

1) Customer value

What a customer expects to get in exchange for the price they pay

2) Financial value

The monetary value and risk profile, both today and tomorrow, of JEA as it relates to the City

3) Community impact value

Improving the quality of life through innovative and cost-effective service offerings, employee volunteerism and ambassadorship, relevant and timely communications, and support of economic development and job growth throughout JEA's service territory; foster a collaborative and respectful corporate culture that provides exceptional employee value to equip the JEA team to deliver outstanding service and value to its community

4) Environmental value

Ensuring a sustainable environment for future generations

Core Competencies

The things we need to be exceptionally and uniquely good at in order to yield better and better results of our Corporate Measures which drive our Mission to demonstrate our Vision

- Deliver an unparalleled positive customer experience
- Work together to elevate the entire team
- Innovate and evolve to match our customer's needs with market trends

Cultural Values

In every action, system and communication, JEA and its employees strive to abide by our Cultural Values; how we act when no one is looking

Safety

The health and wellbeing of our employees and community is paramount to the success of JEA. The work we do at JEA is dangerous and we are committed to habitually protecting our employees and community. Beyond the moral obligation, JEA's value is increased by delivering safety excellence. Measures and strategies designed to prevent, control, reduce or eliminate hazards and risks should be developed and applied continuously to keep pace with technological and economic changes.

Service

Obsessively believe that JEA and our employees' service to our customer and each other is critical to JEA's success. Commit to fostering a service-first culture. Serving with excellence is a choice. Establish a crystal clear plan to ensure customers feel JEA is committed to the best possible service. Foster a collaborative "How can I help?" culture internally. Value and measure the service we provide customers and each other. We volunteer with a spirit of service to build community because it's the one we live in.

Integrity

Trust in truth and transparency. Realize that you have nothing to fear from telling or knowing the truth. Have integrity and demand it from others. Never say anything about someone that you wouldn't say to them directly and give people the benefit of the doubt. Don't let loyalty to people stand in the way of truth and the well-being of the organization. Be open, honest, fair, respectful and ethical at all times.

Growth²

Be committed to elevating yourself and JEA. In order to continue to serve our customers and community with excellence our business must grow. Now more than ever we need to be flexible and adapt to the changing utility industry and our customers' changing needs and expectations to improve service to our customers and community while growing as our industry evolves. We also expect our employees to be life-long learners so we provide the training and individual development programs to aid in this accomplishment. Growth means an increase in knowledge, value, wellbeing, or sustainability. Growth is continuous and not always linear. Growth only occurs at JEA when knowledge, value, wellbeing, or sustainability are committed to writing, a process or an institutional system.

Accountability

Each and every employee should operate as an owner of JEA who is responsible for delivering outcomes and results. Hold yourself and others accountable and appreciate them for holding you accountable. If you've agreed with someone that something is supposed to go a certain way, make sure it goes that way—unless you get in sync about doing it differently. Create a culture in which it is "okay" to make mistakes and unacceptable not to learn from them. Be loyal to the common mission and not to anyone who is not operating consistently with it. Get over "blame" and "credit" and get on with "accurate" and "inaccurate." Create an environment in which everyone has the right to understand what makes sense and no one has the right to hold a critical opinion without speaking up.

Ideas

Every one of us has a voice. JEA should have a culture of an "Idea Meritocracy." Recognize that having an effective idea meritocracy requires that ideas be encouraged and brought forward constructively. We understand content and merit of each person's ideas before agreeing or disagreeing. Disagreeing must be done efficiently and respectfully. Recognize and learn how to get beyond disagreements. Once a decision is made for the benefit of the organization; everyone should get behind it even though individuals may still disagree.

INTER-OFFICE MEMORANDUM

December 28, 2018

SUBJECT: PROTECTION OF JEA INFRASTRUCTURE FROM THIRD PARTY

DAMAGE

FROM: Melissa Dykes, President/Chief Operating Officer

TO: JEA Board of Directors

BACKGROUND:

At the December 11, 2018, Board meeting I shared with the Board some operations concerns around an increase in the number of water and wastewater damage incidents from third-party contractors. These incidents are primarily the result of rapidly-expanding telecommunications infrastructure in our region, and contractors and subcontractors failing to undertake all necessary due diligence and precautions to avoid damaging JEA's water and wastewater assets.

As a follow-up, the Board requested information about rules governing reimbursement and enforcement around these incidents, as well as what JEA is doing to prevent future incidents to the extent possible.

DISCUSSION:

Rules governing third party requirements and reimbursement for damage incidents:

The rule that governs utility locates is Chapter 556, Florida Statutes "Underground Facility Damage Prevention and Safety Act" (Act). The Act provides a notification process for all excavating contractors and the public to notify of their intent to engage in excavation or demolition (also known as "Sunshine State One-Call" or "Call Before You Dig"). This notification system requires companies to identify and locate underground facilities prior to any excavation work.

Section 556.105 outlines a detailed procedure that these companies must follow regarding the location of the underground facilities and excavation activities, along with liability when damage occurs. Under the statute (Section 556.106 (2)(a)), JEA can recoup 100% of the costs, including JEA lost revenue, from the company that caused the damage to our assets. The statute (Section 556.107 (1) (c)) provides for a nominal - $500 per violation – penalty, with no increase for repeat offenders.

Procedurally, JEA's Risk Management Services group is responsible for incident/accident reporting, investigations, and collections pertaining to damages to JEA's assets, and the City of Jacksonville's Risk Management Division assists with the collection of funds from negligent parties and/or their insurance carriers. Although the statute provides for full reimbursement, as a practical matter JEA's collection experience has historically been less than 100% due to a number of contractors being from outside of the region, which presents difficult and costly recovery activity for these damages, many of which are relatively small dollar amount and high volume.

JEA action to proactively address this challenge:

JEA has engaged the Jacksonville Sherriff's Office to assist with enforcement of the statute, including spot checks of third party contractors, beginning in January 2019. In addition, through the latter half of 2018 JSO assisted JEA by responding immediately to incidents that occurred, assisting with identifying gaps and negligence which ultimately helped JEA more fully recover expenses associated with third party damage.

JEA also initiated meetings with the major telecom carriers in partnership with the City of Jacksonville to (1) insure carriers are informed as to the rules, procedures, and resources available to prevent damage to JEA infrastructure, including design locate tickets which provide as-built information before a project is mobilized, (2) inform carriers of the issues with their subcontractors related to gaps in following these procedures and resulting damage, and (3) gain cooperation to help prevent future incidents.

Furthermore, JEA has met with the City and DOT staff to work together to implement a policy to suspend permit rights for contractors in the most egregious repeat offender cases.

In the longer term, the 811 Sunshine Board is proposing changes to Chapter 556, Florida Statutes during the 2019 legislative session. The proposal outlines a new enforcement framework and increases the penalty for violations (particularly for repeat offenders). JEA will support this legislation individually and through industry groups to help provide more effective enforcement tools to prevent damage to infrastructure.

For JEA's own projects, JEA includes strict prevention and enforcement language around damage to JEA's existing infrastructure.

Please do not hesitate to let me know if you have any questions.

RECOMMENDATION:

INTER-OFFICE MEMORANDUM

January 3, 2019

SUBJECT:	CORPORATE HEADQUARTERS – CAMPUS UPDATE
FROM:	Aaron F. Zahn, Managing Director/CEO
TO:	JEA Board of Directors

BACKGROUND:

JEA released a solicitation in October 2018 for its corporate headquarters. This new campus is needed to address business continuity risks while meeting our headquarters needs in a cost-efficient manner. The Board provided input on qualitative selection criteria at the July and August 2018 Board meetings that will be used to score options received through a competitive solicitation.

The goal is to provide the best solution for JEA's current and future business needs and continue to allow JEA to attract and retain an engaged workforce.

DISCUSSION:

The following is the anticipated schedule, including Board participation, for the remainder of the process:

January 8 – Responses received. JEA and CBRE evaluated responses against the criteria developed by the Board and developed a recommended short list of top ranked respondents.

January 22 – Shortlist announced at the regularly-scheduled JEA Board meeting.

February 5 - Special meeting of the JEA Board to make the final selection, pending negotiation of full terms and conditions. At this special meeting, Board members will be provided with staff's summary analysis of the responses, CBRE's financial analysis, and presentations directly from the respondents. Board members will then add points specifically allocated to the Board for award based on the materials and presentations from this special meeting to staff's evaluation to produce the final result and ranking.

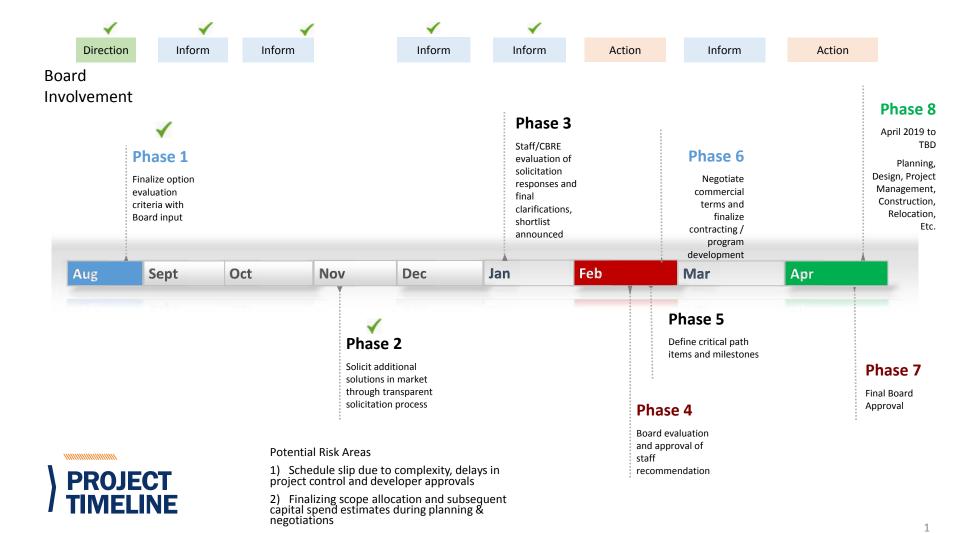

Spring 2019 – Final contract presented to the Board for approval. Respondents to the ITN are required to provide a site or building, conceptual design and site fit, a delivery team, financing terms (lease with purchase options in out years) and demonstrate experience and financial capabilities to develop a project of this size. Once a selection has been approved by the Board, CBRE and JEA will negotiate full terms with the selected respondent for presentation of a final contract in the spring.

RECOMMENDATION:

This item is to identify the short listed responses to the Board.

DISCUSSION:

JEA's Procurement and JSEB performance during FY18 exceeded established goals. Details are provided in the attachments and summary information is provided below.

- FY18 total procurement savings were $10,494,402 vs. the $7,500,000 goal.
 - The total cost difference resulted in a savings of $4,830,624, when comparing existing prices vs. new pricing on contracts sourced during FY18.
 - The total sourcing savings resulted in $5,663,777 from negotiations and other sourcing methods used for contracts sourced during FY18.
- FY18 JSEB spend was $15,760,635 vs. the $13,000,000 goal.
 - o The FY18 goal was set at 20% of available spend per city ordinance.
 - JEA determines its available spend by reviewing competitively sourced JEA services that can be performed by the current pool of JSEB certified firms.
 - o JEA's actual JSEB spend was 24% of its available spend.
- FY18 expenditures with companies who are certified small businesses, but not certified as JSEB companies, were $6,328,571.
- FY19 goals are $9,100,000 for total procurement savings and $15,000,000 for JSEB spend.
 - o The FY19 JSEB spend goal is 23% of the available spend.
 - During the first 3 months of FY19, JEA has achieved total procurement savings of $4,776,336 and JSEB spend of $3,391,927.
- JEA also has a goal to add at least 5 new JSEB companies during FY19.
 - JEA has identified potential areas for JSEB opportunties and is working with key stakeholders on targeted outreach efforts to further grow capacity.

RECOMMENDATION:

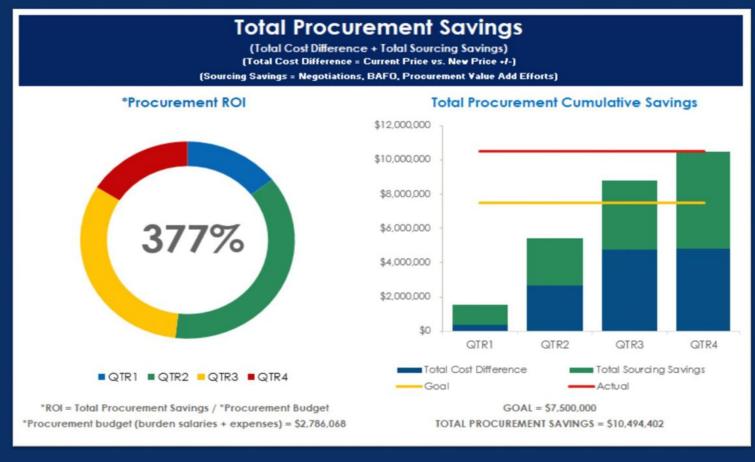

No action is required by the Board. This item is presented for information only.

SUBJECT: ST JOHNS RIVER POWER PARK SYSTEM EMPLOYEES'

RETIREMENT PLAN COMMITTEE MEMBER COMPOSITION

FROM: Aaron Zahn, CEO

TO: JEA Board of Directors

BACKGROUND:

As a result of the closure of the St. Johns River Power Park ("SJRPP"), JEA has reviewed the governance of the now closed SJRPP Retirement Plan (the "SJRPP Pension"). Because the SJRPP Pension closed to new members, JEA is proposing a new simpler SJRPP Pension Committee structure.

DISCUSSION:

The SJRPP Pension Committee composition is governed by Article 7.4 of the Plan. In accordance with the SJRPP Pension plan's terms, the Committee must be comprised of at least three persons, and is responsible for the administrative functions of the pension plan, including but not limited to the following:

- Oversight of the funds held by the pension plan, including the adherence to or modification of investment practices followed;
- Approval of pension payments pursuant to the Plan's requirements with concomitant review of challenges to interpretations; and
- Administrative compliance recommendations that fall within the JEA Board's power, but for which the Committee is tasked with review and recommendation responsibility.

The recommended composition of the Committee following the closure of SJRPP is:

- 1. JEA Treasurer (Chair)
- 2. JEA Controller
- 3. Joint Owned Electric Representative

RECOMMENDATIONS:

- 1. That the Board approve the revised composition of the Committee as follows, and obtain written confirmation of agreement to serve from the employees holding those positions:
 - JEA Treasurer (Chair)
 - JEA Controller
 - Joint Owned Electric Representative

Given changes in the utility sector, the time is now to develop a strategic plan

1 Technology

Emerging energy economics of the supply stack shifting

Emerging operational technologies laying the foundation for digital transformation

Objectives of the effort: Develop a 10 year strategy for JEA that drives an increase in the value of JEA now and in the future. The strategy will:

Policy

Push for decarbonization gaining momentum

More comprehensive policies (e.g. net metering, Energy Efficiency)

Position JEA to succeed in the face of trends that challenge the traditional utility model

Proactively shape talent and culture to meet changing needs

Identify investments required to meet

Drive growth in its core business

customer needs

3 Customer

Rising bar on customer experience driven by non-utility players

Customer awareness of emerging technologies rising

Maintain affordability for customers

4 Capital

Entry of players with competitive capital has potential to change returns and competitive play profile (e.g. Canadian and European investors, activists)

Define key metrics and benchmarks and the strategic initiatives needed to achieve success

Include a clear tracking structure, supported by continuous change management and capability building

A successful strategic plan is underpinned by 7 core principles informing our approach

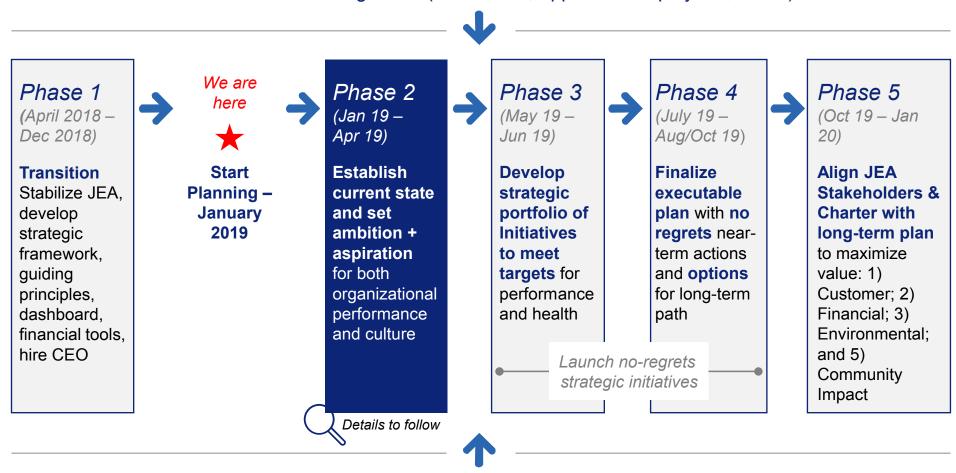

- A strategic plan responsive to trends
- A clearly articulated vision for the future
- ✓ Defined goals and metrics for success
- An aligned organization
- Discrete initiatives, clearly prioritized
- Owners accountable for driving each initiative
- ✓ A clear process to track and measure progress

Our path to an executable strategic plan will follow an phased approach

Internal stakeholder alignment (Board, SLT, appointed employees, Union)

External stakeholder consultation and feedback (e.g. City of Jacksonville)

Phase 1 will assess both JEA performance and health to set aspirations for strategy effort

Phase 2 (January Through April)

Develop status quo / business as usual financial projections to show impact on JEA performance of external trends

Assess current state of JEA health and culture using organizational health index Develop scenarios to assess potential strategic responses to trends Set metrics and targets for performance and health in line with existing strategic framework

Set performance and health ambition + aspirations for JEA

The big idea: leaders need to measure and manage organizational health with the same rigor as performance

McKinsey Quarterly

The hidden value of organizational health—and how to capture it

Aaron De Smet, Bill Schaninger, and Matthew Smith

New research suggests that the performance payoff from organizational health is unexpectedly large and that companies have four distinct "recipes" for achieving it.

The problem

Building a healthy organization is difficult. "One off" reorganization initiatives often bring only ephemeral benefits. Attempts to close every benchmark and best-practice gap also end in disappointment.

Why it matters

Sustained organizational health is among the most powerful assets a company can build. Healthy companies generate total returns to shareholders three times higher than those of unhealthy ones.

What to do about it

Companies that consistently outperform their peers typically follow one of four distinct organizational "recipes," each characterized by a distinct set of management practices. Leaders should identify the one that most closely matches their strategic aspirations. The trick then is to be truly great in a handful of practices rather than trying to master them all, while avoiding "recipe killers."

For the past decade, we've been conducting research, writing, and working with companies on the topic of organizational health. Our work indicates that the health of an organization is based on the ability to align around a clear vision, strategy, and culture; to execute with excellence; and to renew the organization's focus over time by responding to market trends. Health also has a hard edge: indeed, we've come to define it as the capacity to deliver—over the long term—superior financial and operating performance.

In previous articles and books, such as Beyond Performance, we (and others) have shown that when companies manage with an equal eye to performance and health, they more than double the probability of outperforming their competitors. Our latest research, at more than 800 organizations around the world, revealed several new twists:

- We found that the linkage between health and performance, at both the corporate and subunit level, is much clearer and much larger than we had previously thought. With the benefit of more data and a finer lens, we discovered that from 2003 (when we began collecting data on health) to 2011, healthy companies generated total returns to shareholders (TRS) three times higher than those of unhealthy ones.
- We further discovered that companies consistently outperforming their peers generally followed one of four distinct organizational "recipes." We had already recognized these patterns but hadn't understood their strong correlation with health, operational success, and financial performance.
- We also uncovered a practical alternative to the common (but too often disappointing) approach of seeking to improve corporate health by closing every benchmark and best-practice gap. More tailored initiatives that combine efforts to stamp out "broken" practices while building signature strengths not only are more realistic but also increase the probability of building a healthy organization by a factor of five to ten.

¹Scott Keller and Colin Price, Beyond Performance: How Great Organizations Build Ultimate Competitive Advantage, first edition, Hoboken, NJ: John Wiley & Sons, 2011. See also Scott Keller and Colin Price, "Organizational health: The ultimate competitive advantage," McKinsey Quarterly, June 2011, mckinsey.com.

In short, we're more convinced than ever that sustained organizational health is one of the most powerful assets a company can build. We're also clearer on how to achieve it, including the pitfalls to avoid on the road. We hope this is welcome news to leaders worried about the long term, who frequently complain to us that the benefits of their one-off reorganization initiatives are ephemeral.²

How we track health

For the past ten years, we have measured and tracked organizational health in hundreds of companies, business units, and factories around the world. We ask employees (more than 1.5 million and counting) about their perceptions of the health of their organizations and what management practices they do or don't see in them. We then produce a single health score, or index, reflecting the extent to which employees say that their organizations are "great" in each of nine dimensions (or outcomes) of organizational health. To establish more precisely what each organization looks like, as well as its strengths and weaknesses, we also ask employees how frequently they observe³ four to five specific management practices—how managers run the place—that drive those nine outcomes. Exhibit 1 provides some flavor of how the management practices, 37 in all, line up against the outcomes.

When we have done this with similar units—such as factories, processing units, and regions—in a given company, we have frequently found a strong correlation between organizational health (as measured by our survey) and the unit's financial or operating performance.

For example, when we established health scores at 16 refineries in the same energy group, we noted a sharp linear relationship between those scores and each refinery's performance as defined by gross profit per unit of output. Health explained 54 percent of the variation in the units' profits.

 $^{^2\}mbox{These}$ were the fortunate ones. Our global survey shows that only one-third achieve change goals.

³On a scale ranging from "never or almost never" to "always or almost always."

Exhibit 1

The organizational-health index tracks nine dimensions of organizational health, along with their related management practices.

In all, the index covers 37 related management practices. Here are selected examples of practices for 3 of the dimensions.

In the insurance industry, we found similar results when we compared 11 claims-processing sites. In this case, we found a strong correlation between health (as defined by the site-specific summary score) and performance (defined as a carrier's specific proprietary amalgamated metric across indemnity, expense, and customer-satisfaction metrics). Health differences explained about one-third of the variation in performance. This is a significant number, since the remaining two-thirds includes known determinants of performance, such as competition, macroeconomic forces, and local-market dynamics (we did not evaluate the relative importance of these forces, which, unlike organizational health, leaders cannot control).

After replicating these findings across many clients and industries, we began to wonder about the strength of the health effect. Could health possibly explain performance variations across companies, industries, and geographies?

⁴The explanatory power rose to 56 percent when a single outlier was removed.

When we compared the health metrics of more than 270 publicly traded companies⁵ with their financial-performance metrics, we found that the healthiest generated total returns to shareholders that were three times higher than those of companies in the bottom quartile and over 60 percent higher than those of companies with "middle of the road" health profiles. We have not yet isolated the specific health effect for the sample as a whole, but judged by the energy and insurance-company examples, it is likely to be substantial.

Management practices matter

The most interesting findings, though, came when we looked more closely at the healthiest organizations in our database. Obviously, all had high health scores as measured by the nine outcomes of health. But when we delved deeper and looked at the 37 practices that management teams focus on to deliver those outcomes, we discovered that four combinations of practices, or "recipes," were associated with sustained success. Indeed, further analysis showed that companies strongly aligned with any of these four organizational recipes were five times more likely to be healthy and to deliver strong, sustained performance than companies with mixed (or random) recipes.

Each of the four clusters we identified from the data reflects a distinct underlying approach to managing, including core beliefs about value creation and what drives organizational success. Each can be described by the specific set of management practices prioritized by companies that follow it (Exhibit 2).

The hallmark of the first, or leader-driven, recipe is the presence, at all of an organization's levels, of talented, high-potential leaders who are set free to figure out how to deliver results and are held accountable for doing so. This open, trusting culture is typical of highly decentralized organizations or of new businesses, where the resolve of strong leaders, effectively multiplied by their peers across the organization, is essential to create something from nothing. While most organizations use career opportunities to motivate employees, companies in this cluster use career opportunities as a leadership-development practice. Role modeling and real experience are more important than passing along sage lessons.

Organizations following the second, or market-focused, recipe tend to have a strong external orientation toward not only customers but also competitors, business partners, regulators, and the community. These companies strive to be product innovators, shape market trends, and build a portfolio of solid, innovative brands to stay ahead of the competition. The best ones both respond to demand and develop products that help shape it (a strong recent example would be Apple as it reshaped several consumer-technology markets). They have a shared vision and the strategic clarity to ensure that employees explore the right market opportunities, as well as strong financial management to provide individual accountability and to ensure that responses to market trends are in fact profitable.

Exhibit 2

Top 5 out of 37 management practices prioritized by companies that follow given approach

Leader driven	Market focused	Execution edge	Talent and knowledge core
Career opportunities	Customer focus	Knowledge sharing	Rewards and recognition
Inspirational leaders	Competitor insights	Employee involvement	Talent acquisition
Open and trusting	Business partnerships	Creative and entrepreneurial	Financial incentives
Financial incentives	Financial management	Bottom-up innovation	Career opportunities
Risk management	Government/ community relationships	Talent development	Personal ownership

The third recipe, which we call execution edge, includes companies that stress continuous improvement on the front line, allowing them to raise quality and productivity constantly while eliminating waste and inefficiency. These companies place a heavy emphasis on sharing knowledge across employees and sites—not just as a way to foster innovation, but, paradoxically, also as the primary way to drive standardization. Knowledge sharing helps to manage the frequent trade-offs between the top-down need for networkwide consistency and bottom-up encouragement of employees; without it, the best ideas might not get disseminated across different units of an organization. Such companies are unlike market-focused ones, which push alignment and consistency more strongly from the top down by analyzing external trends and developing a clear strategy for where the market is going.

The fourth and final recipe, talent and knowledge core, is found frequently among successful professional-services firms, professional sports teams, and entertainment businesses. Such organizations emphasize building competitive advantage by assembling and managing a high-quality talent and knowledge base. They typically focus on creating the right mix of financial and nonfinancial incentives to acquire the best talent and then on motivating their employees and giving them opportunities. In contrast to companies in the leader-driven group (whose value is created through teams directed by a strong leader), talent and knowledge-core organizations succeed thanks to highly skilled individual performers.

Implementing a healthy recipe

The case of a global chemical manufacturer we know highlights the power of the recipe approach. This company faced increasing energy costs, intensifying international competition, stricter environmental regulation, and the shutdown of one of its sites in an environmental-permit dispute. It had to move quickly to reduce its costs, improve its maintenance productivity, and raise production.

This company's mining operation had approximately 450 employees distributed in an area more than five times the size of Manhattan. A health-feedback session where the voice of the organization was "mirrored" back to it showed clearly that the appropriate recipe was execution edge. After an action-planning workshop, executives developed interventions to encourage the most important practices for this recipe: knowledge sharing, employee involvement, and a creative and entrepreneurial environment. Efforts were made to redefine the role of frontline supervisors (including retraining), to engage the frontline workforce, and to step up the impact of employee communication. These initiatives led to greater employee involvement in decisions and more bottom-up knowledge sharing.

For example, the company introduced regular one-on-one visits between miners and supervisors to discuss productivity strategies, to review progress meeting production targets, and to engage in "micromine planning." Supervisors became the bottom-up conduit for cross-fertilizing these ideas in daily shift-production meetings, weekly "step back" meetings, and monthly management meetings.

Other miners and supervisors, motivated no doubt by the continuing emphasis on accountability for production, voluntarily adopted the best solutions. Not unexpectedly, the miners and supervisors began to feel greater ownership of their work, and employee engagement increased by 20 percent.

As for the operational-performance goals, wrench time⁶ increased to 45 percent, from a baseline of 22 percent. Productivity, in turn, rose by 50 percent over a two-year period, generating additional profits of $350 million. Costs fell sharply, with annual run-rate savings of approximately $180 million.

It is worthwhile noting that the transformation blended health objectives with performance goals. Neither was treated in isolation. One reinforced the other, making each immediately relevant and maximizing the likelihood that the organization will sustain performance and respond successfully if challenged again by severe market disruption.

⁶An indicator of maintenance performance: a measure of the amount of time that craft personnel spend actually carrying out their primary tasks (for instance, using tools to make a repair), as opposed to time spent traveling from project to project or sitting in meetings.

Building a healthier organization

What can be learned from the four healthy organizational clusters our latest research identified? How can companies adapt accordingly? We certainly wouldn't suggest that they blindly seek to replicate one of the cluster recipes, ingredient by ingredient or practice by practice. Just as great chefs don't copy and paste the recipes of others, companies must take these general archetypes as inspiration and identify the pattern of healthy practices that best fits their own organizations and strategies. In the continuing search for a better-functioning organization, companies should consider the following issues.

The imperative of alignment between strategy and health

Successful companies match their organizations to their aspirations. Once a company has identified the most appropriate organizational recipe for the chosen strategy, it should align the organization as far as possible with that mix of practices. If its most important day-to-day practices do not support its strategy, or are not consistent with the direction communicated by its leadership, the misalignment can often undermine both overall performance and health.

Such misalignments often happen in strategic shifts. A large technology company we know changed its product and service mix and rapidly accelerated its globalization strategy. It then realized that what it really needed was a new focus on developing high-potential leaders who could direct next-generation businesses and operate with a global mind-set. Such moves would bring the company closer to the leader-driven recipe. Its old execution focus was no longer a powerful competitive weapon.

This company developed what it called "critical paths" for a ladder of opportunities available to high-potential leaders. These paths culminated in an important role, such as general manager for a large region, and promoted to prominence leaders who were visibly inspirational. When the company's own research showed that trust accounted for 90 percent of its employees' perceptions of how effective their managers were, it focused its development efforts accordingly. (Coincidentally, trust was one of its three core cultural values.)

The company ultimately avoided the "commodity hell" it feared. It reliably increases its margins every year, leads its industry in segments where it elects to compete, and is recognized by respected analysts as a leading "talent factory."

The importance of selection

Our earlier research had already shown that to be in the top group of healthy organizations, companies must do better than bottom-quartile ones across the full suite of 37 management practices. But a better-than-bottom score is generally enough for practices that are not essential to a company's recipe. The trick is to be truly great in a handful of practices—and not to worry a lot about the rest, which is just as well because no company has the capacity, resources, or management time to be great at all 37. The power of the four recipes our research unearthed is that they provide an indication of where to concentrate improvement efforts.

We discovered that 73 percent of the companies that strongly or very strongly follow one of the four recipes, and are not in the bottom quartile for any practice, enjoy top-quartile health. By contrast, only 7 percent of companies that have at least one broken practice and a less-than-strong embrace of any of the recipes are in the top quartile. Taken together, this represents a better than 10:1 ratio of effectiveness. It also suggests that the right course is to fix all broken practices (by improving them enough so that a company escapes the bottom quartile) and to turn a targeted handful of practices into true strengths. Trying to exceed the median benchmark on a large number of practices is not effective.

The danger of recipe killers

Our research also identified recipe killers—the management equivalent of baking a beautiful chocolate soufflé but then adding too much salt and rendering the dish inedible. The new data suggest that, just as concentrating on too many practices diminishes an organization's odds of achieving top health and success, adding the wrong practices to the recipe can be extremely harmful.

One example is the overemphasis on command-and-control leadership styles in companies trying to follow the execution-edge recipe. Most people think execution requires that approach. Actually, execution requires tremendous on-the-ground energy, so the best execution-driven organizations employ internal competition and bottom-up innovation to empower the front line to excel. Overuse of top-down processes would kill that dynamic—and, indeed, in our data set the least healthy execution-edge organizations are those that have the authoritative-leadership practice in their top ten.

Building organizational health can be a powerful lever for improving the long-term performance of companies. Leaders can't ignore this lever, given the accelerating pace of change facing most industries.

Companies can achieve organizational health in several ways—the four key ones we have discussed here. But gratifying simplicity masks hidden risks. Choose your recipes and ingredients carefully, as the wrong mix may leave a bad taste in the mouths of employees, executives, and investors alike. •

Organizational health: A fast track to performance improvement

Working on health works. It's good for your people and for your bottom line.

by Chris Gagnon, Elizabeth John, and Rob Theunissen

The central idea underlying our organizational work for the past decade has been that the best way to run a business is to balance short-term performance and long-term health.

Healthy companies, we know, dramatically outperform their peers. The proof is strong—the top quartile of publicly traded companies in McKinsey's Organizational Health Index (OHI) delivers roughly three times the returns to shareholders as those in the bottom quartile—so strong, indeed, that we've almost come to take it for granted.

But now we see new, longitudinal evidence that redoubles our conviction. Companies that work on their health, we've found, not only achieve measurable improvements in their organizational well-being but demonstrate tangible performance gains in as little as 6 to 12 months. This holds true for companies across sectors and regions, as well as in contexts ranging from turnarounds to good-to-great initiatives.

Our recommendation is clear: start managing your organizational health as rigorously as you do your P&L, providing pathways for leaders at all levels to take part and embedding and measuring the new ways of working.

HEALTH AND THE BOTTOM LINE

We think of organizational health as more than just culture or employee engagement. It's the organization's ability to align around a common vision, execute against that vision effectively, and renew itself through innovation and creative thinking. Put another way, health is how the ship is run, no matter who is at the helm and what waves rock the vessel.

The case for health

Over the past ten years, we've monitored the health of more than 1,500 companies across 100 countries. We do this by aggregating the views of their employees and managers (more than four million to date) on management practices that drive nine key organizational dimensions—or "outcomes," as we call them. We assign scores to each practice and outcome, allowing a company to see how it compares to others in the database.

We've long seen a strong, static correlation between health and financial performance. But our latest research is more dynamic: it highlights the potential for the vast majority of companies to improve their health and how this can correspond with enhanced performance. Our findings include the following:

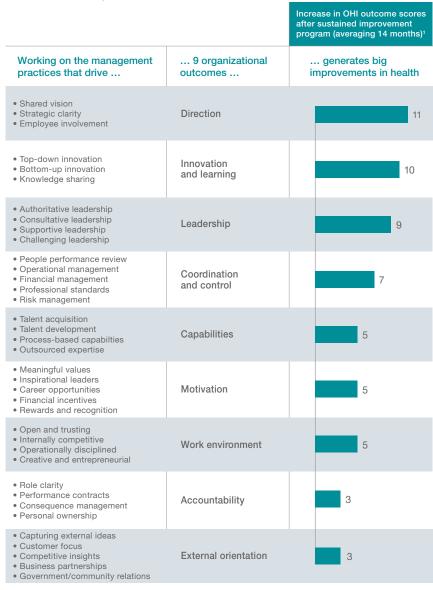

- Almost all companies perform better if they improve their health. Around 80 percent of companies that took concrete actions on health saw an improvement, with a median six-point increase in their overall health (Exhibit 1). The majority of these companies moved up an entire quartile against all other companies in our database. Over the same period that the companies in our sample were making changes to their health, their earnings¹ and total returns to shareholders (TRS) were also increasing disproportionately—by 18 percent and 10 percent, respectively (against an average 7 percent increase in earnings and an average 9 percent increase in TRS for those companies in the S&P 500).
- The unfit are the most likely to make the biggest health advances. After working on their health, companies in the bottom quartile saw a 9-point health improvement, with notably strong improvements in the company direction (+17 points) and innovation and learning (+14 points) outcomes. This group of "health workers" made progress across every outcome.

¹ The earnings metric we used for this analysis was earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation, and amortization (EBITDA).

• Those at the top achieve the biggest financial rewards. Companies whose healthimprovement efforts took them from the second quartile of the OHI to the top quartile recorded the biggest financial-performance boost, a clear sign that working on health is an important factor in going from "good" to "great."

Could the causality run the other way? In other words, when companies improve their financial performance, might their people align, execute, and renew better and therefore be more likely to identify healthy changes in the characteristics of their organizations? In theory, yes. In practice, though, we've seen the opposite, over and over again. Consider, for example, the experience of a European entertainment company: Over the past three and a half years, it's moved from the third quartile of the OHI to the top decile. Financial performance has improved dramatically during that period as well (its market share is up 7 percent, customer volume is up 15 percent, and EBITDA is up 85 percent). But when the company was acquired recently by a larger competitor, it was the improvement in health that particularly stood out. The acquirer's CEO said that, in his mind, organizational health accounted for at least 10 percent of the entertainment company's value. Health, in short, isn't some survey artifact; it's something you can see and feel when you're inside a healthy company and a prerequisite for sustained performance.

Speed and rigor

Given all the data and practical experience that supports working on health, companies' obsession with the P&L alone continues to puzzle us. It's right that leaders manage their P&L meticulously, but why not do the same for their health? In fact, why not measure health frequently throughout the year, since it's a leading indicator of performance, whereas financial results are a lagging one? Similarly, why do the vast majority of employee-performance dialogues focus on progress against financial targets, and not on whether behavior is contributing to organizational health?

In private conversations, executives often confess to being quite torn on this issue. They of course want a healthy organization, but they worry about how long it will take to realize tangible benefits from efforts to improve health and about distracting people from other mission-critical priorities. Our experience suggests that these concerns are misplaced. Just as anyone can compete in a 5K race if he or she trains properly, so too can companies be conditioned to improve their health in a short period of time—and those improvements can reinforce those mission-critical priorities.

The key to speed is a rigorous approach. This starts with making the quest for organizational health an integral part of forward-looking leadership: senior leaders need to consider themselves architects, not passive bystanders. Then it means integrating health into monthly and quarterly performance reviews, with data to show how both are trending versus targets. Supporting priorities include tying financial incentives to accomplishing health goals; creating and holding accountable a health team dedicated to embedding the right behaviors in the organization; and weaving health into the performance initiatives already under way.

A FOCUSED APPROACH TO ACHIEVING ORGANIZATIONAL HEALTH QUICKLY

So how do you make health gains quickly? In our experience, there are four areas forward-looking leaders must invest in to build a healthy, performance-driven organization (besides, of course, ensuring that they are fully aligned on the business strategy; strategic and organizational misalignment are a surefire path to poor health and general operating dysfunction). The first, most important step is choosing the performance culture—or what we call the "recipe"—that will best drive their organization's performance. Then it's about moving to adopt that recipe as quickly as possible, addressing the mind-sets that will drive new forms of behavior, building a committed team of people at all levels to get involved, and, finally, developing fast feedback loops to monitor progress and course correct if necessary. These actions will help companies target resources on the right priorities, move swiftly, and make the new habits stick.

Pick a health recipe

It's clear that there is no such thing as a single winning performance culture. But based on our OHI analysis, we have identified four combinations of practices (or "recipes") that, when applied together, drive superior health—and quickly. We call these four the Leadership Factory (organizations that drive performance by developing and deploying strong leaders, supporting them through coaching, formal training, and the right growth opportunities); the Continuous Improvement Engine (organizations that gain their competitive edge by involving all employees in driving performance and innovation, gathering insights and sharing knowledge); the Talent and Knowledge Core (organizations that accelerate their performance by attracting and inspiring top talent); and the Market Shaper (organizations that get ahead through innovating at all levels and using their deep understanding of customers and competitors to implement those innovations).

They all sound pretty good, right? The reality is, though, that organizations can't do all of them, which is why a focus on one of them will lead to better and speedier results. Our research shows that when organizations are closely aligned to any one of these four recipes, they are six times more likely to enjoy top-quartile health than companies with weak alignment or diffuse efforts (Exhibit 2). Achieving such alignment requires focus on a small set of organizational-health practices (usually no more than five to ten) that work in concert with each other. Contrast that with what happens more commonly: leaders in various parts of the business copy different external "best practices" across myriad management disciplines. This approach diffuses people's efforts, can easily result in conflicting approaches, and hinders development of the sort of common performance culture that connects employees regardless of where they sit.

While there's no such thing as a single winning performance culture, any one of four 'recipes' can produce superior organizational health.

A family-owned Asian conglomerate faced this very challenge: People across the organization employed "best practices" from multiple sources and were adapting them in different ways. As the conglomerate's leaders sought to change its conservative, risk-averse culture to a more innovative and entrepreneurial one, they began placing greater emphasis on organizational health and chose the Continuous Improvement Engine (CIE) recipe to govern their health strategy. Three themes were central to that strategy: improving knowledge sharing across business units, developing innovation and entrepreneurship, and improving employee motivation. Heads of HR across the business units drove the subsequent learning initiatives under the CEO's sponsorship, launching a corporate academy on innovation, promoting regional innovation conferences, and providing extrinsic motivators such as nontraditional career paths for innovators and entrepreneurs. This consistent and coherent approach led to a nine-point improvement in health.

Get to the heart of the mind-sets

Don't be fooled by the symptom; understand the cause. To create rapid and lasting progress on the set of practices that will drive health, companies have to identify and address the deep-rooted mind-sets influencing employee behavior and then define new ones to replace them.

When seeking to understand and address these mind-sets, we like to use the image of an iceberg popularized by MIT academics Otto Scharmer and Katrin Kaufer. Above the surface (the tip of the iceberg) is the visible behavior repeated and reinforced by the organization every day. Under the surface are employees' thoughts and feelings (both conscious and unconscious); their values and beliefs (the things that are important to them); and their underlying needs, including their fears and the threats to their identity. These below-the-surface factors have to be understood and addressed before shifts in behavior and culture can be realized to drive organizational health.

Once a company has identified the mind-set or mind-sets it wants to instill in employees, it needs a set of actions to change the working environment and drive adherence. Here, McKinsey's long-established influence model defines practical interventions that help structure a way forward. Is there a clear change story to foster an understanding of why a new approach is required? What incentives should be introduced to reinforce that new approach? Are training programs required to improve the skills of people in the organization? Are leaders across the business role modeling the appropriate mind-sets? Being clear on these four dimensions is likely to be critical to the long-term success of a program for improving organizational health.

A global equipment manufacturer was under pressure from cost-competitive entrants, challenging its long run of dominance in a specialized, capital-intensive industry. With the development costs of its most recently released product coming in at several times its original budget, the company needed to drive down costs to maintain its market position. Leaders had been trying to address this problem, but their lack of results only led them to more frustration.

The breakthrough came when, supported by the OHI, they realized there were deeply rooted mind-sets across the organization that were holding it back. The leadership team ultimately identified five of these mind-sets—the most important of which was how, historically, the organization had prioritized on-time delivery and product performance, often at the expense of product cost. In practice, engineers felt it was their job to design incredible products, with cost being an output rather than an input. To shift this thinking, the leaders set out to demonstrate that adding value for customers, as well as efficient processes, were just as important as on-time delivery and product performance. They launched a number of highly visible initiatives that gave them the opportunity to role model the appropriate new behavior and highlight the rewards associated with it, then rolled the initiatives out across key parts of the organization—especially in engineering, operations, and supply-chain management.

The company also found simple and low-cost ways to embed the new mind-sets. One of these included giving all employees who attended a health town hall or participated in an initiative a lanyard with a red and green card. The red card shared the company's performance-limiting mind-sets, while the green card shared the performance-accelerating ones it sought to embed. This simple reinforcement made it quickly obvious who had the lanyards and who did not, providing a constant signal for all employees to take part in the program. It also served as a vehicle for providing feedback: in initiative team meetings, employees called out "red" behaviors by holding up their red card, allowing everyone to pause and colleagues to reset their approach. Employees reinforced "green" behavior, too, thereby encouraging others that they were on the right track. Thanks to these steps, the company's current pipeline of products is on track to meet its delivery, performance, and cost targets.

Engage employees at all levels

It requires strong leadership and role modeling for change to take hold quickly. But change is not a top-down exercise. Health improvement happens quickly and sustainably when you drive it top to bottom, bottom to top, and side to side. This is best done by engaging a committed community or network of formal and informal influencers.

Influencers exist at all levels of an organization, ranging from assistants to middle managers. Such people often have an oversized impact on motivating colleagues. They may be rising stars or simply well-liked and enthusiastic team players with a positive attitude. And while in many cases they are not immediately visible to leaders, they can be unearthed via simple survey-based technology that asks employees to identify people who meet the characteristics of an influencer. Companies that map them—the exercise should take no more than one to two weeks—are often surprised by how deep many of these people are within the organization. Such influencers reinforce leadership's case for change, role model the new mind-sets, collect feedback on what's going well and what's not, and excite and engage the front line.

An electronics company in Europe successfully unleashed the power of a group of influencers as part of its drive to become more innovative and customer focused. Employees had been generally upbeat about the transformation, but the company noted that attitudes didn't change and leaders were struggling to translate their vision into new forms of behavior. Senior leaders therefore identified a minimum of two people in each location or function who were acknowledged and respected by their peers, regardless of their level in the hierarchy, and invited them to help communicate the progress of the transformation, to suggest ways to intervene locally, and to act as role models. They assigned a project manager to coordinate this network of change agents, keeping in touch and checking in with them to facilitate knowledge sharing. Thanks to these influencers' interventions sharing information with the front line, taking time to talk to customers and feeding the information back to senior leaders, and calling out colleagues who did not adopt the desired attitudes—substantial behavioral changes began to take hold quickly.

Get 'on the pulse'

Organizational health is organic, and, like the human body, it evolves over time. If health is to be nurtured and improved quickly, it needs to be monitored and measured regularly. The days of conducting a survey and then waiting 12 months to remeasure are gone. This "on the pulse" measuring strategy, which requires fast feedback loops, pinpoints where course corrections are needed. Simple technology tools that put out one question a day provide real-time measurement while reducing survey fatigue. Weekly health huddles with teams offer instant feedback. And integral performance and health reviews reveal how an organization's health is evolving in reaction to the actions taken. Leaders, as architects of the effort to improve organizational health, can then make changes to ensure that the new mind-sets are taking hold. High-performing organizations require leaders who can manage performance and health in concert.

A high-performing European telecom company embarked on a digital transformation only to discover that its highly directive and execution-oriented management approach (a profile that had served it well for decades) was getting in the way of rapid renewal. It was at the bottom of the class in health, according to the OHI, with eight out of nine outcomes in the third or fourth quartile. Recognizing that the company had to be more agile if it was to respond to the industry shifts and technology disruptions, the company's leaders focused initially on four practices aimed at increasing employee motivation and giving the company a new performance edge: rewards and recognition, consequence management, role clarity, and personal ownership.

After three months of using the survey technique of one question a day, the company found that it was making progress across all practices except rewards and recognition. Such a fast feedback loop enabled the team to intervene quickly, celebrate the successes, and revisit its approach to rewards and recognition. As a result, leaders combined their internal learnings with external best practices and redefined their interventions to improve the ways in which they rewarded and recognized high-performing teams and individuals.

A global electronics company took a different approach, introducing a simple survey of no more than ten pertinent questions to check whether critical new practices—such as giving and asking for feedback—were being embedded. The responses, which were shared with and discussed by all the teams, showed which teams were taking the effort seriously. The results of the survey reinforced the right behaviors until they became routine.

Companies often tell us that, while organizational health sounds like a great idea, it doesn't feel like a necessity to achieving their short-term goals. They also worry that it's going to be too much work. Both reactions are misguided. Far from being a distraction, a focused health-improvement plan should actually help companies achieve their short-term goals. And it will not be an added burden—in most cases, working healthy is doing what you're already doing but doing it differently. It's about redefining how to connect, engage, and communicate with employees. It's about sharing a company's vision and mission in a way that inspires employees to act in its best interests. Above all, it's about adopting a more innovative and effective style of leading, executing, and innovating. Working on health works, and it works quickly. (Q)

The yin and yang of organizational health

Sustained performance over the long term and successful transformation in the near term require many of the same ingredients.

by Lili Duan, Rajesh Krishnan, and Brooke Weddle

Actions necessary to support longer-term corporate-performance objectives, on the one hand, and a rapid performance transformation, on the other, might seem at odds. But our research paints a different picture. When coupled with organizational health, long- and short-term performance can become interdependent and complementary—just as yin and yang in Chinese philosophy are inseparable, unable to exist without each other, despite their apparent opposition.

Simply put, healthy organizations are more likely to orient themselves toward the long term. And companies in the midst of a rapid performance transformation boost the odds of sustaining those efforts when they improve their health. The evidence for these propositions is substantial, and it underscores the fundamental link between organizational health and performance.

HEALTH AND THE LONG TERM

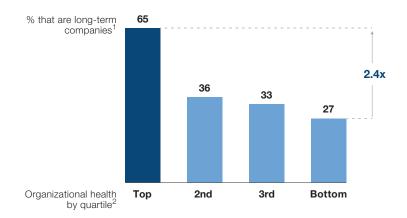

Renewal has always been central to our definition of organizational health, which emphasizes a company's ability to deliver superior financial and operating performance over the long term. Our conviction that there is a link between organizational health and a long-term orientation was reinforced recently when we analyzed a set of 51 companies for which we have rich proprietary data on both characteristics.

Our health data come from McKinsey's Organizational Health Index (OHI), which aggregates the views of employees and managers on a set of nine key organizational dimensions that have proved critical to health. For long-termism, we drew on a metric created by the McKinsey Global Institute and McKinsey's Strategy and Corporate Finance Practice that differentiates those companies with a long-term orientation from others. Known as the Corporate Horizon Index (CHI), it assesses five factors, including consistency of investment patterns, earnings quality, and the extent to which companies focus on value-creation fundamentals rather than the targets emphasized by Wall Street analysts.

When we compared the 51 companies for which we have both CHI and OHI data, we found a strong, two-way correlation between health and long-term performance (Exhibit 1). On the one hand, the healthiest organizations are the ones that focus more on long-term value creation. On the other hand, companies focusing on long-term performance tend to have higher organizational-health scores. What's more, companies focusing on long-term value creation outperform their peers on all nine of the key organizational $^{{}^2\}text{McKinsey's Organizational Health Index (OHI) measures an organization's performance across 37 different management practices, looking at how behaviors, actions, and processes contribute to 9 dimensions of organizational health. outcomes that contribute to organizational health. These are early findings; our next step is to identify specific management practices that simultaneously boost health and contribute to a long-term orientation.

HEALTH AND TRANSFORMATIONS

Transformations, as anyone who has lived through one well knows, are tough, emotional, and even searing experiences. Leaders of these efforts sometimes worry that the decisive, short-term actions needed to improve financial results will undermine their organization's health. However, our work suggests it's quite possible to improve organizational health during transformation efforts—helping to achieve and sustain the transformational gains, while further strengthening the fabric of the company.

What's more, by analyzing OHI data from a statistically significant sample of organizations that have worked with McKinsey's Recovery & Transformation Services unit, we have hit on a list of "power" practices, which increase a company's odds of sustaining top-quartile health (Exhibit 2). Companies prioritizing them during the first year of the transformation effort improve their health by twice as much as companies that don't. These practices are only one piece of the organizational-health puzzle (for more on the whole puzzle, see "Organizational health: A fast track to performance improvement," on McKinsey.com), but especially during the early stages of transformational change, they pack a particular punch, as we will describe in the remainder of this article.

Set a clear direction

Health in a transformation starts with strategic clarity and a shared vision that has been translated into crisp goals and milestones. The translation process helps the company decide what it will and will not do (including where it will and will not compete). And the broad communication of it to leaders and employees helps them avoid working on initiatives that are not germane to the strategy or that might even send mixed signals about what the strategy is.

One public utility drove strategic clarity by taking its "bankable plan" on a road show, visiting different sites and departments to state the case for change and to discuss ways to realize it. This company created simple communication devices, such as a vision "one-pager," which brought the strategy to life for employees by visually depicting how it would play out across the value chain, including where there would be new investments and what would change. In another example, a mining company produced banners and commitment cards with the performance and health goals of the transformation clearly stated as a visual reminder.

Make it meaningful to employees

The companies that made the biggest gains on health in a transformation took the extra, critical step of ensuring that their employees' day-to-day behavior was guided by the company's vision and strategy. This requires thinking through how to match the personal goals of employees with the company's goals—going beyond "cascading" the strategy into key performance indicators and targets to involving employees up front in setting the company's strategic objectives, ensuring that the right talent is in place to achieve those objectives, and making sure that each individual's "stake" in the strategy reflects his or her aspirations.

At an industrial company, the top team made a concerted effort to engage every employee so as to generate ideas that would improve the top and bottom lines. As a result, roughly 1,500 of the more than 5,000-strong workforce owned at least one of the more than 2,000 "transformation" initiatives, with many more owning important activities that were part of these initiatives.

Spark ideas and innovation

Organizational health improves during a transformation when companies embrace fresh ideas. Sometimes this means looking outside for best practices to help innovate and invigorate the business. Leaders should rightly be wary of the cookie-cutter approach, but there are proven ways to increase the flow of ideas and challenge incremental thinking. The industrial company mentioned above consciously set out to address the "not invented here" syndrome that had prevailed in the organization. Employees were encouraged to start working more closely with customers, for example, to enhance support services, and similarly with vendors to change product specifications to drive higher utilization in their processes. It even tapped recent hires to find out how competitors managed their supply chain, improving importing and exporting processes in emerging markets. These efforts sparked fresh ideas and created a deep sense of ownership among employees. Encouraging "bottom-up" innovation also generates such ownership—and it, too, showed up in our data as a transformation accelerant.

Build strong operational discipline, in a supportive way

Organizations seldom get fit without strong operational discipline. It's important to start at the top, with explicit targets for operating performance that are then replicated at other levels. Operational discipline requires the communication of clear standards of work so that employees understand how to achieve goals and metrics consistently. This also helps leaders ensure that the day-to-day work complies with those standards, and it allows leaders to emphasize the core values of efficiency and productivity. Maintaining operational discipline puts a premium on another management practice: supportive leadership, which includes creating a sense of teamwork and mutual support throughout the organization and demonstrating concern for the welfare of employees.

Boosting operational discipline sometimes demands financial incentives or recognition that rewards new forms of behavior. A consumer-goods company in Asia–Pacific set aside a discretionary fund for employees who embodied the new way of working and who went above and beyond their routine jobs to help the company achieve the objectives of the transformation. Managers also formally recognized this extra effort, thanking fellow colleagues publicly on a near-daily basis and following up constructively with employees who were struggling. This approach helped to sustain momentum long after the initial impetus had begun to wane.

The common thread running through these findings and examples is sustainability. Healthy organizations are better at sustaining themselves over the long haul. And transformations are more sustainable when companies prioritize improving their organizational health—which, as our research suggests, isn't just desirable, it's quite feasible. By enhancing sustainability, stronger organizational health connects the yin of long-termism with the yang of aggressive performance improvement, making it a worthy goal for any leader worried about his or her legacy. Drafts of New Governance Documents

DRAFT PREPARED BY JLB January 16, 2019

A. Purpose

Consistent with the Charter, the JEA Board Policy Manual, and the JEA Board Governance Guidelines, this JEA Delegation of Authority Policy (the "Policy") has been established by the JEA Board of Directors (the "Board") to:

- · Indicate levels of delegated authority for certain categories of action;
- Set out matters specifically reserved for approval or concurrence by the Mayor, City Council, JEA Board, and those matters delegated to JEA senior leadership team; and
- Establish expense approval limits for each level.

The approval limitations set forth herein apply to any decision to renew, extend, amend, purchase or exercise any other form of delegated authority. No approval of an initial transaction shall in any way be deemed to grant approval over any subsequent decisions to renew, extend, amend, purchase or exercise any delegated authority.

At the time of the ratification of this Policy, the Board consists of seven (7) members, and the senior leadership team (the "SLT") is comprised of:

- Managing Director and Chief Executive Officer ("MD/CEO")
- President and Chief Operating Officer ("P/COO")
- · Chief Financial Officer ("CFO")
- Chief Public and Shareholder Affairs Officer ("CPSAO")
- Vice President and Chief Compliance Officer ("CCO")
- Vice President and Chief Human Resources Officer ("CHRO")
- Vice President and Chief Legal Officer ("CLO")
- Vice President and Chief Supply Chain Officer
- Vice President/General Manager, Electric Systems
- Vice President/General Manager, Wastewater Systems
- Vice President and Chief Customer Officer

Nothing contained in this Policy creates or is intended to create an employment contract between the JEA and any of its employees. This Policy may be changed, deleted or discontinued by the Board, however, from time to time the SLT titles and positions may be modified by the MD/CEO and incorporated into the appropriate level of authority by the MD/CEO without the need of Board approval.

- Vice President and Chief Information Officer ("CIO")

B. General and Delegated Authority

Other than as expressly provided in this Policy, all matters not specifically reserved for the Board and necessary for the day-to-day management of the organization and implementation of JEA objectives are delegated to the senior leadership team and may be sub-delegated as appropriate. The following approval authority levels are established as follows:

Level	Delegated Individual/Body
0	Mayor City Council
1	Board
2	MD/CEO
3	P/COO CFO
4	CPSAO VP GM
5	Chief Procurement Officer ("CPO")
6	Directors
7	Managers
8	Operational Procurement Officer

In addition to matters specifically addressed in the related policies noted at the end of this Policy, the following table illustrates the various levels of authority provided to each individual or body. There are certain powers that are shared by individuals occupying different levels of authority, or that require approval from multiple individuals within the same level of authority. Please refer to the Notes section for specific delegated responsibilities within each delegated level of authority. Unless otherwise indicated in the Notes, any individual in an authority level may provide approval for that level.

Generally and unless otherwise specifically indicated in the Notes column, in circumstances where an individual or body is unavailable to authorize a certain action that would fall under their respective delegated authorities under this Policy, any individual or body occupying the higher level of authority may do so on behalf of the absent delegate, and such authorization shall have the same effect as it would had it been performed by the delegated individual or body.

POLICY 3.0

POLICY TITLE: GLOBAL BOARD-MANAGEMENT DELEGATION

The Board's sole official connection to the operational organization, its achievements, and conduct will be through a chief executive officer titled Managing Director / CEO, referred to within this document simply as CEO.

- 3.1 Unity of Control: Only officially passed motions of the Board are binding on the CEO.
- 3.2 Accountability of the CEO: The CEO is the Board's only link to operational achievement and conduct, so that all authority and accountability of staff, as far as the Board is concerned, is considered the authority and accountability of the CEO.
- 3.3 Delegation to the CEO: The Board will instruct the CEO through written policies that prescribe the organizational Ends to be achieved and describe organizational situations and actions to be avoided, allowing the CEO to use any reasonable interpretation of these policies.
- 3.4 Monitoring CEO Performance: Systematic monitoring of CEO job performance will be solely against the only expected CEO job achievements: organizational accomplishment of Board policies on Ends and organizational operation within the boundaries established in Board policies on Executive Limitations.
- 3.5 CEO Remuneration: Salary and benefits and other terms of employment for the CEO will be determined by contract.
- 3.6 Core Competencies: Executive Core Competencies are included in the Appendix.

POLICY TYPE: BOARD MANAGEMENT DELEGATION

POLICY 3.1

POLICY TITLE: UNITY OF CONTROL

Only officially passed motions of the Board are binding on the CEO.

Accordingly,

- 3.1.1 Decisions or instructions of individual Board members, officers, or committees are not binding on the CEO.
- 3.1.2 In the case of Board members or committees requesting information or assistance without Board authorization, the CEO can refuse such requests that require, in the CEO's opinion, a material amount of staff time or funds, or are disruptive. The CEO shall promptly inform the Board if requests from Board members or committees are refused.

POLICY 3.2

POLICY TITLE: ACCOUNTABILITY OF CEO

The CEO is the Board's only link to operational achievement and conduct, so that all authority and accountability of staff, as far as the Board is concerned, is considered the authority and accountability of the CEO.

Accordingly,

- 3.2.1 The Board as a body and individual board members will never give instructions to persons who report directly or indirectly to the CEO.
- 3.2.2 The Board will not evaluate, either formally or informally, any staff other than the CEO. However, the CEO will discuss his evaluation with the Board of the executives identified as potential interim CEO successors (refer to 2.5.1)
- 3.2.3 The Board will view CEO performance as identical to organizational performance so that organizational accomplishment of Board-stated Ends and avoidance of Board-described means will be viewed as successful CEO performance.

JEA Board Policy Manual

POLICY TYPE: BOARD MANAGEMENT DELEGATION

POLICY 3.3

POLICY TITLE: DELEGATION TO THE CEO

The Board will instruct the CEO through written policies that prescribe the organizational Ends to be achieved and describe organizational situations and actions to be avoided, allowing the CEO to use any reasonable interpretation of these policies.

Accordingly,

- 3.3.1 The Board will develop policies instructing the CEO to achieve specified results, for specified recipients, at a specified cost. These policies will be developed systematically from the broadest, most general level to more defined levels and will be called Ends policies. All issues that are not ends issues as defined here are means issues.
- 3.3.2 The Board will develop policies that limit the latitude the CEO may exercise in choosing the organizational means. These limiting policies will describe those practices, activities, decisions and circumstances that would be unacceptable to the Board even if they were to be effective. Policies will be developed systematically from the broadest, most general level to more defined levels, and they will be called Executive Limitations policies. The Board will never prescribe organizational means delegated to the CEO.
- 3.3.3 As long as the CEO uses any reasonable interpretation of the Board's Ends and Executive Limitations policies, the CEO is authorized to establish all further policies, make all decisions, take all actions, establish all practices, and pursue all activities. Such decisions of the CEO shall have full force and authority as if decided by the Board.
- 3.3.4 The Board may change its Ends and Executive Limitations policies, thereby shifting the boundary between Board and CEO domains. By doing so, the Board changes the latitude of choice given to the CEO. However, as long as any particular delegation is in place, the Board will respect and support the CEO's choices.
- 3.3.5 Should the CEO violate a Board policy, he or she shall promptly inform the Board. Informing is simply to guarantee no violation may be intentionally kept from the Board, not to request approval. Board response, either approving or disapproving, does not exempt the CEO from subsequent Board judgment of the action nor does it curtail any executive decision.

POLICY 3.4

POLICY TITLE: MONITORING CEO PERFORMANCE

Systematic monitoring of CEO performance will be solely against the only expected CEO job achievements: organizational accomplishment of Board policies on Ends and organizational operation within the boundaries established in Board policies on Executive Limitations.

Accordingly,

- 3.4.1 Monitoring is simply to determine the degree to which Board policies are being met. Data or information that does not do this will not be considered to be monitoring information.
- 3.4.2 The Board will acquire monitoring information by one or more of these methods:
 - By internal report, in which the CEO discloses interpretations and compliance information to the Board.
 - By external report, in which an external, disinterested and independent third party selected by the Board assesses compliance with Board policies (e.g. external financial audit).
 - By direct Board inspection, in which a designated member or members of the Board assess compliance with the appropriate policy criteria.
- 3.4.3 In every case, the Board will judge (a) the reasonableness of the CEO's interpretation and (b) whether data demonstrate accomplishment of the interpretation.
- 3.4.4 The standard of compliance shall be any reasonable CEO interpretation of the Board policy being monitored. The Board is the final arbiter of reasonableness.
- 3.4.5 All policies that instruct the CEO will be monitored at a frequency and by a method chosen by the Board. The Board can monitor any policy at any time by any method, but will ordinarily depend on a routine schedule:

[Example of monitoring schedule] - (final schedule will be set after policies are developed)

POLICY 4.0

POLICY TITLE: GLOBAL GOVERNANCE PROCESS

The purpose of the Board, on behalf of the owners of JEA, the citizens of Duval County, is to see to it that JEA (a) achieves appropriate results for appropriate persons for an appropriate cost (as specified in Board Ends policies) and (b) avoids unacceptable actions and situations (as prohibited in Board Executive Limitations policies).

- 4.1 Governing Style: The Board will govern in accordance with legal requirements, observing the principles of the Policy Governance model, with an emphasis on (a) outward vision rather than internal preoccupation, (b) encouragement of diversity in viewpoints, (c) strategic leadership more than administrative detail, (d) clear distinction of Board and chief executive roles, (e) collective rather than individual decisions, (f) future more so than past or present, and (g) proactivity rather than reactivity.
- 4.2 Board Job Description: Specific responsibilities of the Board as an informed agent of the ownership are those that ensure appropriate organizational performance.
- 4.3 Agenda Planning: To accomplish its responsibilities with a governance style consistent with Board policies, the Board will follow an annual agenda that (a) completes a re-exploration of Ends policies at least annually and (b) continually improves Board performance through education and deliberation.
- 4.4 Board Officers: Board officers assure the integrity of the Board's process and record's. Board officers are: Chairman, Vice-Chairman, Secretary & Assistant Secretary.
- 4.5 Rules of Order: Board meetings will be conducted in an orderly and fair process consistent with the requirements of Florida law, Ordinances of the City of Jacksonville, the JEA Charter, Bylaws and these governance policies. Meetings will be led by the Chairman, or, in the absence of the Chairman, the Vice-Chairman, or, in the absence of both, by the Chairman's designee.
- 4.6 Board Member's Code of Conduct: The Board commits itself to lawful, ethical and businesslike conduct, following all requirements of Florida Law, Ordinances of the City of Jacksonville, and the JEA Charter including proper use of its authority and appropriate decorum when acting as Board members.
- 4.7 Board Member's Individual Responsibility: The leadership success of the Board is a direct result of the individual and collegial participation of its members.
- 4.8 Board Committee Principles: Board committees, when used, will be assigned so as to reinforce the wholeness of the Board's job and not to interfere with delegation from the Board to the CEO.
- 4.9 Board Committee Structure: A committee is a Board committee only if its existence and charge come from the Board, regardless of whether Board members sit on the committee. The only Board committees are those which are set forth in the Bylaws or in this policy. Unless otherwise stated, a committee ceases to exist as soon as its task is complete. The CEO will attend meetings of each committee, but shall not have a vote.
- 4.10 Cost of Governance: The Board will invest in continuous improvement of its governance capacity.

POLICY 4.1

POLICY TITLE: GOVERNING STYLE

The Board will govern in accordance with legal requirements, observing the principles of the Policy Governance model, with an emphasis on (a) outward vision rather than internal preoccupation, (b) encouragement of diversity in viewpoints, (c) strategic leadership more than administrative detail, (d) clear distinction of Board and chief executive roles, (e) collective rather than individual decisions, (f) future more so than past or present, and (g) proactivity rather than reactivity.

Accordingly,

- 4.1.1 Unique Requirements of Florida Law for Public Boards: In conducting its duties as a Board in Florida, the Board is required to comply with the Florida Sunshine Law, which prohibits any two or more members of the Board from meeting unless the meeting has been properly noticed and conducted in accordance with the legal requirements. In addition, Florida Law contains requirements regarding Public Records, conflicts of interest and voting which must be followed in the conduct of the Board's business.
- 4.1.2 The Board will cultivate a sense of group responsibility and will be a proactive Board versus a reactive Board. The Board, not the staff, will be responsible for excellence in governing. The Board will be the initiator of policy, not merely a reactor to staff initiatives. The Board will use the expertise of individual members to enhance the ability of the Board as a body rather than to substitute the individual judgments for the Board's values.
- 4.1.3 The Board will direct, control, and inspire the organization through the careful establishment of broad written policies reflecting the Board's values and perspectives. The Board's major policy focus will be on the intended long-term impacts outside the staff organization, not on the administrative or programmatic means of attaining those effects.
- 4.1.4 The Board will enforce upon itself whatever discipline is needed to govern with excellence. Discipline will apply to matters such as attendance, preparation for meetings, policymaking principles, respect of roles, and ensuring the continuance of governance capability. Although the Board can change its Governance Process policies at any time, it will diligently observe those currently in force.
- 4.1.5 Continual Board development will include orientation of new Board members in the Board's governance process and periodic Board discussion of governance process improvement.
- 4.1.6 The Board will allow no officer, individual, or committee of the Board to hinder or serve as an excuse for the Board not fulfilling its commitments.
- 4.1.7 Each member of the Board will respect the final determination of the Board concerning any particular matter, regardless of the member's personal position concerning such matter.

 - b. Executive Limitations: Constraints on executive authority that establish the prudence and ethics boundaries within which all executive activity and decisions must take place.
 - Board-Management Delegation: Specification of how power is delegated and its proper use monitored; clarity on the CEO's role, authority, and accountability.
 - Governance Process: Specification of how the Board develops, carries out, and monitors its own responsibilities.
- 4.2.3 The Board will measure the CEO's performance against its Ends and Executive Limitations Policies.
- 4.2.4 The Board will measure its own performance against its Governance Process and Board-Management Delegation Policies quarterly.

- 4.3.2 The agenda for the Board's monthly meeting will be established through consultation with the Chair and the CEO.
 - The agenda along with supporting item documentation will be made available to Board members seven days prior to monthly Board meetings.
 - b. The Board will attend to consent agenda items as expeditiously as possible.
 - c.  - (1) Meeting discussion content will consist of issues that clearly belong to the Board to decide or to monitor according to Board policy.
 - (2) Information that is neither for monitoring performance nor for Board decisions will be avoided or minimized and always noted as such.
 - (3) Deliberation will be fair, open, and thorough but also timely, orderly, and kept to the point.
 - b. The authority of the Chairman consists in making decisions that fall within topics covered by Board policies on Governance Process and Board-Management Delegation, with the exception of (a) employment or termination of the CEO and (b) areas where the Board specifically delegates portions of this authority to others. The Chairman is authorized to use any reasonable interpretation of provisions in these policies.
 - (1) The Chairman is empowered to chair Board meetings with all the commonly accepted powers of that position, such as ruling and recognizing.
 - (2) The Chairman has no authority to make decisions about policies created by the Board within Ends and Executive Limitations policy areas.
 - (3) The Chairman may represent the Board to outside parties in announcing Boardstated positions and in stating Chairman decisions and interpretations within the area delegated to that role.
 - (4) The Chairman may delegate this authority but remains accountable for its use.
 - (5) The Chairman may appoint members and a Chairman for each Board committee, unless otherwise stipulated by Board policies or the organization's Bylaws.

 - Discussion of a matter not on the previously distributed agenda may occur only after Board consent that the matter be heard.
 - b. Proposals that the Board take action, or decide a particular matter, shall (unless otherwise agreed to by unanimous consent) be made by main motion of a Board member, discussed, and then voted on. Motions require a second to proceed to discussion and subsequent vote.

 - A motion to amend a main motion may be amended but third level amendments are not to be heard.

POLICY 4.6

POLICY TITLE: BOARD MEMBER'S CODE OF CONDUCT

The Board commits itself to lawful, ethical and businesslike conduct, following all requirements of Florida Law, Ordinances of the City of Jacksonville, and the JEA Charter including proper use of its authority and appropriate decorum when acting as Board members.

Accordingly,

- 4.6.1 Members are expected to represent the interests of the ownership. This accountability supersedes any conflicting loyalty such as that to advocacy or interest groups and membership on other Boards or staffs. It also supersedes the personal interest of any Board member acting as a consumer of the organization's services.
- 4.6.2 Members must avoid conflict of interest with respect to their fiduciary responsibility. Such conflicts of interest include but are not limited to the following:

- Conditions for Use. Informal Purchases may be made in accordance with Operational Procedures. Procurement requirements shall not be artificially divided so as to constitute an Informal Purchase under this Section.
- (2) Competitive Pricing. Unless the Procurement is otherwise exempted by this Code, the Operational Procedures for Informal Purchases shall require, at a minimum, the following kind and number of quotations from prospective suppliers:
 - a. one properly documented quotation for Procurements of $10,000 or less; or
 - three written or properly documented quotations for Procurements exceeding $10,000 but not exceeding the Formal Purchase threshold amounts stated in 3-101 (Formal Purchases).
 - (3) If the purchase is over $50,000 it shall be publicly advertised for 7 to 10 days.

3-103 Methods of Pre-Source Selection

If found to be in the best interest of JEA, the Chief Procurement Officer or Designee shall authorize the use of Pre-Source Selection methods which are as follows:

- (1) Request for Information (RFI). A Request for Information (RFI) may request written information about the capabilities of bidders and prepare interested parties for participation in future Solicitations. The publication of a RFI notice does not obligate JEA to make the purchases referred to in the RFI.
- (2) Intent to Bid. An Intent to Bid is intended to provide information to all bidders of JEA's intent to solicit a bid for Supplies or Services. The Intent to Bid may request a response from Bidders confirming their intent to submit a bid in response to a future JEA Solicitation. The publication of an Intent to Bid notice does not obligate JEA to make the purchases referred to in the Intent to Bid.

3-104 Methods of Source Selection

All JEA Contracts shall be awarded through a competitive sealed bidding process, pursuant to Section 3-105 (Invitation for Bids), unless otherwise provided in the following Section(s):

- (a) Procurement Directives issued pursuant to Section 2-201(2) (Procurement Code Exemptions);
- (b) Section 3-109 (Multi-Step Competitive Bidding);
- (c) Section 3-106 (Request for Proposals);
- (d) Section 3-107 (Procurements subject to the Consultant's Competitive Negotiation Act);
- (e) Section 3-108 (Competitive Selection Procedures for Design-Build Services);
- (f) Section 3-110 (Invitation to Negotiate);
- (g) Section 3-102 (Informal Purchases);
- (h) Section 3-111 (Sole Source Procurements);
- Section 3-112 (Procurement of Standard, Proprietary and Original Equipment Manufacturer Items);
- (j) Section 3-113 (Emergency Procurements);
- (k) Section 2-202 (Procurements Exempted from Competitive Solicitation);
- (I) Article 4 (Procurement of Financial Instruments and Services);
- (m) Article 3-114 (Public Private Ventures);
- (n). Article 3-115 (Collaborative Procurement Agreements);
- (o) Article 3-116 (Joint Projects); or
- (p) Article 3-117 (Use of Publicly Procured Contracts).

3-105 Invitation For Bids (IFB)

(1) Conditions for Use. An IFB is the preferred method for acquiring Supplies and Services. Contracts awarded using this methodology shall be awarded based on price through a competitive sealed bidding process except as otherwise provided in Section 3-104 (Methods of Source Selection). An IFB shall be used when JEA is capable of precisely defining the Specifications for a Supply or Service. An Award of Contract is based solely on the dollar amount of the Bid and does not include discussions or negotiations of material terms and conditions with the bidders.

COMMENTARY:

(1) IFBs are used when JEA is seeking the lowest price.

3-106 Request for Proposals (RFP)

- (1) Conditions for Use. This bidding methodology shall be utilized if the Chief Procurement Officer or Designee determines that it is advantageous to JEA. JEA may use a RFP when (i) the evaluation criteria include quality measures in addition to price, or (ii) the Specifications cannot be precisely defined. Various combinations or versions of Supplies or Services may be proposed by a Company to meet the Specifications of the RFP document.
- (2) This Section does not apply to the procurement of professional architectural, engineering, landscape architectural or surveying and mapping services. These types of services shall be obtained in accordance with Section 3-107 (Procurements subject to the Consultant's Competitive Negotiation Act) of this Code.

COMMENTARY:

(1) RFP Awards are based on quality and price, and allow greater flexibility in negotiating contract terms and conditions.

3-107 Consultant's Competitive Negotiation Act (CCNA) (Architectural, Engineering, Landscape Architectural, Or Surveying & Mapping Services)

 Conditions for Use. Professional architectural, engineering, landscape architectural, or surveying and mapping services shall be obtained in accordance with Florida Statutes 287.055, entitled "Consultant's Competitive Negotiation Act" (CCNA).

COMMENTARY:

(1) The CCNA process is required for these types of services and selection is based on quality measures only.

3-108 Competitive Selection Procedures for Design-Build Services

(1) Conditions for Use. JEA shall Award a Design-Build Contract in accordance with Section 287.055(9), Florida Statutes, or the Operational Procedures. The Operational Procedures allow the Award of a Design-Build Contract by the use of a competitive proposal selection process.

COMMENTARY:

 Design-Build is used in cases where the general design and construction requirements are known, but the detailed design and engineering is not completed, and this approach has been determined to be in the best interest of JEA.

3-109 Multi-Step Competitive Bidding

(1) Conditions for Use. Multi-Step Bidding involves a two phase process in which bidders first submit proposed revisions to both the commercial and technical terms of the Solicitation. During the second phase, the bidder shall submit a bid price based on a revised Solicitation. An Award is based solely on the price of the bid and does not include additional discussions or negotiations of material terms and conditions with bidders after the Award is approved.

COMMENTARY:

 Multi-Step Competitive Bidding provides flexibility for JEA to define commercial and technical terms after vendor feedback is obtained during the first step of the Solicitation process.

3-110 Invitation to Negotiate

(1) Conditions for Use. The Invitation to Negotiate is a Solicitation which in which JEA identifies one or more responsive Companies with whom JEA may request revised bids or responses, culminating in a Best and Final Offer, from which JEA will make its Award decision. The procedures for conducting an Invitation to Negotiate shall be described in the Operational Procedures.

COMMENTARY:

This sourcing method provides added flexibility for JEA to directly negotiate with vendors during the IFB or RFP process to obtain the best overall pricing and service levels.

3-111 Sole Source Procurements

- (1) Conditions for Use. A Contract may be awarded for Supplies or Services as a Sole Source when, pursuant to the Operational Procedures, the Chief Procurement Officer or Designee determines that:
 - (a) there is only one justifiable source for the required Supplies or Services; or
 - (b) a service is a follow-up of Services that may only be done efficiently and effectively by the Company that rendered the initial Services to JEA, provided the initial procurement was competitive.

3-112 Standard, Proprietary & Original Equipment Manufacturer Procurements

- Conditions for Use. A Contract may be awarded for Supplies or Services with limited or no competition when the Supplies or Services:
 - (a) have been selected as a JEA standard in the course of a standards program or through the action of a standards committee (standard); or
 - (b) must be a certain type, brand, make or manufacturer (proprietary); or
 - (c) must be obtained from the original equipment manufacturer, manufacturer's representative or a distributor authorized by the original equipment manufacturer because of the criticality of the item or compatibility within the JEA system (original equipment manufacturer).

3-113 Emergency Procurements

(1) Conditions for Use. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Code, the Chief Procurement Officer or Designee may make or authorize Emergency Procurements when there exists an Emergency as defined in this Code, provided that such Emergency Procurements shall be made with as much competition as is practicable under the circumstances. A written determination of the basis for the Emergency and for the selection of the particular Company shall be included in the Procurement file.

3-114 Public Private Ventures

- (1) Conditions for Use. JEA hereby adopts F.S. §287.05712, as may be amended from time to time, for the receipt of unsolicited proposals for a qualifying project and the entering of contracts with a private entities for such projects, subject to the following conditions:
- (a) Application Fee. The purpose of an application fee is to pay for the costs of evaluating the unsolicited proposal. The application fee shall be for the direct costs associated with JEA's engagement of non-JEA staff in the evaluation of the unsolicited proposal. The proposer will be notified of the estimated costs of evaluation and shall either pay the application fee or withdraw the unsolicited proposal.
- (b) Public Notice. JEA shall publish public notice in a newspaper of general circulation at least once a week for two weeks stating that JEA has received the unsolicited proposal and JEA will accept other proposals for the same project. The timeframe for allowing other proposals shall be no fewer than 21 days but no more than 120 days after the initial date of publication of the notice.
- (c) Receipt of Proposals. Sealed proposals must be received by the Procurement Office no later than the time and date specified for submission in the published notice.
- (d) Proposal Evaluations. An evaluation team shall evaluate and rank the proposals based upon factors that include, but are not limited to, professional qualifications and experience, general business terms, innovative design, techniques or cost-reduction terms, and finance plans. Proposers may be invited to make oral presentations regarding their proposals. The recommendations of the Evaluation Team shall be submitted to the Awards Committee for approval, rejection or reconsideration.
- (e) Award. For contracts involving long-term debt financing by JEA, the Awards Committee recommendation shall be reviewed and approved by the CEO. Award shall be made to the highest-ranked responsible proposer whose proposal is most advantageous to JEA in accordance with the criteria the Evaluation Team used in evaluating and ranking the proposals. The decision of the CEO shall be final. Written notice of the award shall be given to the successful proposer. Awards made by the CEO shall include authority for all subsequent options of renewal, if any. All contracts shall be in a form acceptable to the CEO and are subject to approval as to legal form by the Office of General Counsel. The Chief Financial Officer or his/her designee shall review all finance plans and documents related to the Private Entity's performance, payment of subcontractors and similar responsibilities. The Director of Risk Management shall review all insurance and related requirements.

3-115 Collaborative Procurement Agreements

- (1) Authorization. JEA may participate in, sponsor, conduct, or administer a Collaborative Procurement agreement for the Procurement of any Supplies or Services or Real Estate with one or more public or Utility Industry Partners, nonprofit organizations or purchasing alliances in accordance with an agreement entered into between the participants. Such Procurements shall be in accordance with Operational Procedures.
- (2) Compliance with Code. JEA shall not enter into a Collaborative Procurement agreement for the purpose of circumventing this Code. When the Chief Procurement Officer determines that the Procurement policies and practices utilized by the public or Utility Industry Partner administering a Collaborative Procurement effort substantially comply with the underlying purposes and policies of this Code, JEA's participation in the Collaborative Procurement agreement shall be deemed to be in compliance with this Code.
- (3) Controversies. Contract controversies arising from a Collaborative Procurement agreement may be resolved in accordance with Article 5, Administrative Remedies, or in accordance with other procedures established or adopted by the public or Utility Industry Partner administering the Collaborative Procurement.

3-116 Joint Projects

JEA may enter into joint projects with public or Utility Industry Partners, the City of Jacksonville and its other independent agencies or other political subdivisions (e.g., the United States Navy, the Florida Department of Transportation, etc.) independent of the requirements of Article 3, Source Selection. Joint projects may include, but shall not be limited to, the following:

- (a) combined water, sewer, drainage and road projects with the City of Jacksonville and Florida Department of Transportation;
- (b) projects that provide significant benefit to JEA and its ratepayers.

3-117 Use of Publicly Procured Contracts

JEA may procure from, or in accordance with pricing, or other terms and conditions set forth in contracts of the City of Jacksonville and its other independent agencies or political subdivisions, other city and state or governmental agencies, school board districts, community colleges, federal agencies, the public or governmental agencies of any state, or from state university systems, and procurement authorities of JEA separate systems, independent of the requirements of Article 3, Source Selection. These Procurements shall be awarded through the Awards Committee in accordance with the Operational Procedures promulgated in accordance with Section 2-403 (Awards Committee Procedures).

COMMENTARY

St. Johns River Power Park and Unit 4 of Plant Scherer are separate systems of JEA.

3-118 Use Of Contract Types

- (1) Any type of Contract subject to this Code that will promote the best interest of JEA may be used provided that, to the maximum extent practicable, all Formal Contracts, except master Contracts, must contain a not-to-exceed maximum amount. All subsequent orders or work authorizations under master Contracts must be in writing and contain a not-to-exceed maximum amount.
- (2) A Cost-Reimbursement Contract may be used only when a determination is made that such Contract is likely to be less costly to JEA than any other type or that it is impracticable to obtain the Supplies or Services required except under such a Contract.

COMMENTARY:

 JEA has restrictions upon the use of funds in a fiscal year other than that in which the funds are appropriated. This section permits multi-year Procurement so that JEA may:

(a) procure larger quantities and obtain the benefits of volume discounts; and

(b) encourage Companies to make capital investments or investments in process changes required to reduce the cost of Supplies or Services they provide JEA.

(2) A multi-year Contract should be used only for master Contracts, unit price Contracts and Supplies or Services needed on a continuing basis with annual quantity requirements that can be reasonably estimated in advance. Multi-year Procurements should attract more competitors to submit bids or offers for the large Contract Awards and thereby provide JEA with the benefits of increased competition.

(3) In some cases, potential vendors are reluctant to enter into multi-year Contracts because of volatility or fluctuations in the vendor's cost of materials or components. To facilitate volume discounts through multi-year Contracts in these situations, Contracts may be structured with fixed and variable cost elements, where the variable cost elements escalate or de-escalate based upon materials or component prices at the time of order. For example, multi-year Contracts for cable and transformers may contain a variable price element based upon the published metals market cost of copper. In no situation, however, shall JEA enter into a Contract with variable price elements that requires JEA to order Supplies when such Supplies exceed any not-to-exceed price established in the Contract or when JEA determines that such order is not in its best interest.

3-119 Form Of Contract Documents

- (1) Formal Contracts. The Office of General Counsel shall approve as to form all initial Contract documents requiring the signature of multiple parties for Contract documents exceeding the Informal Purchase amount. Contract Amendments do not require OGC form approval, unless specifically requested by JEA, and can be signed by the Chief Procurement Officer after review by a qualified JEA Employee.
- (2) Informal Contracts. Purchase order formats may be used for Contracts that do not require the formality of signatures by both parties. If a Contract is executed for an Informal Purchase, it does not do not require OGC form approval, unless specifically requested by JEA, and can be signed by the Chief Procurement Officer after review by a qualified JEA Employee.

COMMENTARY:

(1) The Operational Procedures shall specify when a Contract should be established for a particular Procurement.

3-120 Execution of Contract Documents

The Chief Executive Officer shall execute all Contracts. The Chief Executive Officer may delegate to the Chief Procurement Officer the authority to execute Contracts. Contracts and purchase orders may be executed by electronic means or by facsimile signatures.

3-121 Project/Contract Manager Requirements

The role of a JEA Project and/or Contract Manager is as follows:

- Focus on making best business decisions for JEA when authorizing work and approving invoices;
- Improve Contract compliance by measuring vendor performance, applying liquidated damages, and holding the vendor accountable to Contract requirements;
- (c) Unless otherwise approved by the Director of the Organizational Element, payment retainage shall be in accordance with Florida Statute 255.078, as amended;
- (d) Take invoice payment discounts when appropriate; and
- (e) Ensure all invoices are processed per the Contract pricing and terms.

COMMENTARY:

(1) For Subsection (c), a Director of the Organizational element may reduce the retainage below the amount specified by Florida Statutes: (a) to an amount equal to no less than 20% of the remaining cost to complete the project; (b) where there are no performance issues or quality concerns with the Company to date; and/or (c) Contract is 90% complete.

3-122 Continuing Services Contracts

Continuing services contracts are utilized for recurring work that is projected over a period of time. Individual Tasks issued under a continuing services contract shall not exceed either the amount authorized by the Contract or the amount as authorized by Florida Statutes for the specific category of work.

COMMENTARY

The maximum Individual Task amounts for Professional Services are specified in Florida Statute 287.055 (2)(g), and the maximum amount for Individual Tasks for Construction Services are specified in Florida Statute 355.32 (3)

3-123 Contract Pricing Terms

Contract pricing terms are required in all contracts and are the basis for invoice payment approvals. The appropriate type of pricing terms will depend on the type of contract and work being performed and include, but are not limited to, the following:

(a) Lump Sum/Fixed price Contracts. This type of Contract should be utilized for work that is clearly defined through the delivery of a specific deliverable or project milestone.

- (b) Time and Materials and Labor Hour Contracts /Cost Reimbursement Contracts. This type of contract should be used when the scope and/or amount of work is uncertain at the beginning of the contract period.
- (c) Unit Price Contracts: This type of contract is most appropriate for operations, repair and maintenance work provided through Continuing Services contracts.

4-302 Financial Instruments and Arrangements

(1) General. Financial instruments and arrangements include interest rate Swaps, Caps, Floors, Collars, Options and related hedging instruments, Bond Insurance, surety policies, letters of credit, Forward Supply Agreements, float Contracts, Guaranteed Investment Contracts (GIC's), and related investment instruments used primarily in escrow agreements relating to debt instruments and other credit enhancement and Liquidity Support. Due to the dynamic nature of the marketplace for the foregoing, these types of instruments and arrangements shall be procured in a manner as authorized in this Section or as authorized by the Chief Executive Officer, or Designee on a case by case basis, based on prevailing practices in the marketplace for such financial instruments and arrangements. Written approval by the Chief Executive Officer or Designee of the Procurement methodology shall be obtained prior to the Procurement, if the Procurement methodology is different than the methods specified below. Final approval of the winning bidder for the various instruments in this Section will be confirmed by the Chief Executive Officer or Designee.

- (2) Selection. Suggested methods of procuring the Companies that provide these instruments and arrangements and/or executing the transactions are:
 - (a) competitive bid by the Organizational Element directly or through JEA's financial advisor. Such bid may be restricted to the group of Companies selected to serve as underwriter or otherwise pre-qualified Companies as recommended in writing by JEA's financial advisor (e.g., top rated banks to provide Liquidity Support for JEA's commercial paper program) for interest rate Swaps, Hedges, Caps, Floors, Collars, Options, Bond Insurance, surety policies, letters of credit, Forward Supply Agreements, float Contracts, Guaranteed Investment Contract (GIC's) and related investment instruments used primarily in escrows agreements relating to debt instruments, other credit enhancements, and Liquidity Support.
 - (b) Request for Information Solicitation by the Organizational Element or through JEA's financial advisor. Such Request for Information may be limited to the group of Companies selected to serve as underwriter or other groups of prequalified Companies as recommended in writing by JEA's financial advisor. If more than one Company is selected based on the RFI, a competitive bid shall be utilized among the Companies selected; and
 - (c) if considered by the Chief Executive Officer to be in the best interest of JEA and upon the recommendation of JEA's financial advisor, the Chief Executive Officer may negotiate these types of instruments and agreements with one or more Companies from within JEA's underwriting group or other groups of Companies as recommended in writing by JEA's financial advisor. (e.g., an interest rate Swap executed in conjunction with a bond issue without being subject to (a) and (b) above). In the case of interest rate Swaps, interest rate Caps, Collars, Options and any related hedging agreements, the execution of such instruments or agreements shall be subject to the authorizations approved by the JEA Board on September 21, 1993, April 5, 1994 and April 19, 1994 and any subsequent approvals. In the case of interest rate Swaps, Caps, Floors, Collars, Options, and related hedging instruments, such agreements (and any related agreements or arrangements, including without limitation related collateral agreements, that are determined necessary) shall be executed by the Chief Executive Officer or Designee upon confirmation by JEA's financial advisor that the terms and provisions thereof are commercially reasonable and consistent with customary practices in the relevant market for similar agreements.

(3) Administration. This section adopts and codifies those resolutions approved by the JEA Board on September 21, 1993, April 5, 1994 and April 19, 1994, and subsequent related resolutions. Any changes to those resolutions shall be approved by the JEA Board in the form of amendments to the Code or through additional resolutions approved by the Board. Bond Insurance, surety policies, and other credit enhancements or Liquidity Support agreements shall be approved by the JEA Board in conjunction with the related debt financing. Companies selected to serve as counterparties for Bond Insurance, surety policies, letters of credit, Forward Supply Agreements, float Contracts, Guaranteed Investment Contracts (GIC's) and related investment instruments used primarily in escrow agreements relating to debt instruments, other credit enhancements, Liquidity Support, and other similar instruments and arrangements, are subject to a written agreement executed by the Chief Executive Officer or Designee.

COMMENTARY:

- (1) It is expected that sufficient expertise will be available in the underwriting group so that the interest rate Swaps can be competitively bid within the underwriting group. If the JEA staff determines that a market rate will not be obtained from the existing underwriting group, then additional prequalified bidders may, at the discretion of the Chief Executive Officer, be added to the group.
- (2) It is anticipated that interest rate Swaps and other financial instruments outlined in this section will usually be competitively bid.

Bonds or revenue certificates and refunding bonds or refunding revenue certificates issued pursuant to the JEA Charter if sold by competitive bid shall be sold to the bidder whose bid produces the lowest true interest cost to JEA. The JEA Board may restrict the bidders in any sale by pre-qualification or otherwise and may reserve the right to reject any or all bids. Prior to any sale by competitive bid of bonds or revenue certificates, the JEA Board shall cause notice to be given in such manner and at such time as the JEA Board shall determine. Said notice shall specify such matters relating to the bonds or revenue certificates offered for competitive sale as the JEA Board shall determine and shall state the manner in which bids shall be given. The JEA Board may reserve the right to waive any informalities or irregularities if the JEA Board determines that such action is in JEA's best interest. The Office of General Counsel may deem it appropriate to utilize the method contained in the City of Jacksonville Procurement Code Section 126.311 or in accordance with Section 3-106 (Request for Proposals) of the Code, and does not require the approval of the Chief Procurement Officer. Regardless of the Procurement process used, the General Counsel shall make the final selection of the top ranked Company and recommend said Company to the JEA Board for approval.

Authority to select appropriate additional credit rating agencies, in addition to the nationally recognized credit rating agencies of Fitch Ratings, Moody's Investors Service and Standard and Poor's, to secure debt ratings and related Services for JEA is delegated to the Chief Executive Officer or Designee. Terms and conditions for such Services shall be negotiated with the credit rating agency selected. Companies selected must be nationally recognized credit rating agencies that comply with bond resolution requirements and are acceptable to JEA's debt underwriter, remarketing agent or dealer in order to provide marketability for bonds, notes, or other financial instruments issued by JEA. The Chief Executive Officer or Designee has the authority to delete any of the Companies providing this Service.

- (3) Administration. Agreements with one or more counterparties and related custodial agreements shall be executed by the Chief Executive Officer or Designee. These agreements shall also be approved by JEA's financial advisor and as to form by the Office of General Counsel.

COMMENTARY:

Based on the prevailing market practice at the time of selection, JEA shall determine the method expected to produce the best results for JEA in order to select the Companies with which to enter into Securities Lending agreements.

4-312 Financial Printing Services, Including but not Limited to Official Statement Printing

Procurement for these Services shall be obtained by one of the following methods:

- (a) competitive bid for official statement printers by the Organizational Element directly or through JEA's financial advisor. JEA shall utilize the printer with the lowest responsible bid; or
- (b) Section 3-102 (Informal Purchases).

4-313 Banking Services

Procurement of these Services shall be in accordance with Section 3-106 (Request for Proposals) and does not require the approval of the Chief Procurement Officer. The JEA Board authorizes the Chief Executive Officer or appointed managers designated by the Chief Executive Officer to:

33

- (a) open and continue accounts at any bank under Contract with JEA;
- (b) sign and agree to the provisions of said bank's customary corporate signature card, and authorize the said bank to pay or otherwise honor any checks, drafts, or other orders issued from time to time, for debit to said accounts when signed manually or by facsimile impression by any two of certain appointed managers;
- (c) authorize the electronic transfer of funds;
- (d) act on behalf of JEA in all matters and transactions relating to any of its business with the bank, including the withdrawal of property at any time held by the bank for the account of JEA; and
- (e) provide the bank the authority to accept for deposit for the account of JEA, for credit, or for collection, or otherwise, any and all checks, drafts, and other instruments of any kind endorsed by any persons, or by hand stamp impression, in the name of JEA, or without endorsement.

4-314 Escrow Verification Services and Accounting Services Related to a Debt Issue or Escrow Restructuring

Included in JEA's Contract with its external auditors is a provision for the auditors to perform these Services. If these Services can be obtained for a lesser total cost, including internal JEA costs, than provided for in the current Contract with the external auditors, then proposals may be obtained and evaluated pursuant to (1) the provisions of Section 3-106 (Request for Proposals) (2) Section 3-102 (Informal Purchases) or (3) competitive bid by Organizational Element or through JEA's financial advisor.

4-315 Letters of Credit or Revolving Credit Facilities

JEA on occasion has the option to secure certain contractual obligations by providing a Letter of Credit instead of cash payment or deposit. Procurement of such instruments for this purpose shall be limited to the banks selected per Section 4-313 (Banking Services). The Chief Executive Officer is authorized by a JEA Board resolution approved March 7, 1989 to execute individual letters of credit or lines of credit in an amount not to exceed $5,000,000, and in the aggregate not to exceed $25,000,000 outstanding at any time. This section does not pertain to letters of credit or lines of credit that provide credit enhancement or Liquidity Support for JEA's demand obligations or commercial paper programs and which are procured under Section 4-302 (Financial Instruments and Arrangements).

In addition, JEA may determine pursuant to the requirements of the JEA Charter to utilize revolving credit facilities for any legal corporate purposes. The Chief Executive Officer shall determine the need for utilization of such instruments up to a maximum of $25,000,000, and shall execute the applicable documents. The JEA Board shall approve any amount in excess of $25,000,000. Procurement of such instruments for this purpose shall be by one of the following methods:

- (a) Request for Information or competitive bid by the Organizational Element or through JEA's financial advisor with banks as recommended by the financial advisor,
- (b) Section 3-106 (Request for Proposals) and does not require the approval of the Chief Procurement Officer, or
- (c) if considered by the Chief Executive Officer to be in the best interest of JEA and upon the recommendation of JEA's financial advisor, the Chief Executive Officer may negotiate these types of services and agreements with one or more banks as recommended in writing by JEA's financial advisor.

COMMENTARY:

Maximum limits for letters of credit or Liquidity Support for working capital purposes are in addition to those limits required for letters of credits or Liquidity Support utilized instead of cash payments or deposits.

4-316 Sale of Voluntary Florida Cleanup Tax Credits

Procurement for these Services shall be obtained by one of the following methods:

- (a) Request for Information or competitive bid by the Organizational Element,
- (b) Section 3-106 (Request for Proposals) and does not require the approval of the Chief Procurement Officer, or
- (c) if considered by the Chief Executive Officer to be in the best interest of JEA, the Chief Executive Officer may negotiate these types of services and agreements with one or more firms and approved as to form by the Office of General Counsel.

4-401 Ratification of Expenditures

The Chief Executive Officer shall ratify by signature a summary statement of all expenditures made in accordance with JEA's established practices and policies and applicable statutes. Such ratification shall be made on a monthly basis. This section of the Code satisfies the requirement of Section 21.10 of the JEA Charter.

4-402 Reimbursement of Certain Expenditures from Long-term Permanent Financing

United States Treasury regulations in effect upon the effective date of this Code require JEA to make an official written declaration of its intent to incur certain expenditures using temporarily available funds in anticipation of reimbursing such expenditures from the proceeds of debt obligations of JEA. The Chief Executive Officer or Chief Financial Officer or additional Designee is authorized to declare JEA's intention in writing to reimburse previously incurred expenditures out of proceeds of debt obligations to be issued at a later date. The Chief Executive Officer or Designee is authorized to execute documents that declare that intention and any additional documents necessary to satisfy the Treasury regulations regarding these transactions.

COMMENTARY:

United States tax regulations do change periodically. Future changes on this issue shall be automatically incorporated to this Code without further approval by the JEA Board.

ARTICLE 5 - ADMINISTRATIVE REMEDIES

5-101 Authority to Resolve Protested Solicitations and Awards

- Right to Protest. Any Company who is aggrieved in connection with a Solicitation or an Award of a Contract may submit a protest to the Chief Procurement Officer.
- (2) Protest Submittal. All protests shall be submitted in writing and addressed to the Chief Procurement Officer. The protest shall clearly state the following:
 - (a) the facts and issues supporting the protest,
 - (b) specifically state how the Company has standing to protest,
 - (c) and the remedies requested to resolve the protest.
- (3) Timeliness. Failure to submit a timely protest shall result in the protest being rejected. A protest concerning an Award of a Contract shall be submitted in writing forty-eight (48) hours after such aggrieved Company knows, or should have known, of the facts giving rise thereto. A protest concerning a Solicitation (including any Minimum Qualifications or any Specifications) must be submitted within five (5) calendar days prior to Bid Opening..
- (4) Authority to Resolve Protests. Prior to the commencement of an action in court concerning a protest, the Chief Procurement Officer or Designee shall have the authority to settle and resolve a Company's protest concerning a Solicitation or Award of a Contract. This authority shall be exercised in accordance with the JEA Operational Procedures. Unless otherwise allowed by Florida Statutes, a Company must exhaust all administrative remedies afforded to it by this Code and Operational Procedures before it can commence an action in a court of law.
- (5) Decision. The Chief Procurement Officer or Designee shall promptly issue a decision in writing addressed to protesting Company. The decision shall:
 - (a) recite all relevant facts;
 - (b) state the reasons for the action taken; and
 - (c) inform the Company of its right to administrative review as provided in this Article.
- (6) Notice of Decision. A copy of the decision under Subsection (5) of this section shall be mailed or otherwise furnished immediately to protesting Company and any other party intervening.

- (6) Finality of Decision. A decision under Subsection (5) of this Section shall be final and conclusive, unless clearly erroneous or fraudulent and any Company adversely affected by the decision may appeal administratively to the JEA Procurement Appeals Board in accordance with Section 5-303 (Appeals).
- (7) Stay of Procurements During Protests. In the event of the receipt of a timely protest under Subsection (1) of this Section or under Section 5-303 (Appeals), JEA shall not proceed further with the Solicitation or with the Award of the Contract unless the Chief Procurement Officer, after consultation with the manager of the Organizational Element, makes a written determination that the Solicitation or Award of the Contract without delay is necessary to protect substantial interests of JEA.

COMMENTARY:

- (1) It is essential that actual or prospective bidders and proposers have confidence in the procedures for soliciting and awarding Contracts. This can best be assured by allowing an aggreeved Company to protest a Solicitation, Award, or related decision. This section and Section 5-303 (Appeals) would permit actual or prospective bidders and proposers to:
 - (i) promptly submit a protest to the Chief Procurement Officer concerning a Solicitation or Award; and
 - (ii) have the protest decision reviewed by the Procurement Appeals Board.
- (2) Nothing in this section is intended to affect the ability of the Office of General Counsel to settle actions pending before the Procurement Appeals Board, or the courts.
- (3) The public posting of the Awards Committee agenda on the JEA website shall serve as one way in which a Company should know about an upcoming Award. The 48 hour limit for filing a protest shall begin at this public notice in this instance.
- (4) Only a Company who is adversely affected by JEA's actions may file a protest under this Section. The purpose behind the standing requirement is to ensure that the protesting Company has a sufficient interest in the outcome of the protest resolution.

5-102 Authority to Debar or Suspend

- (1) Authority. The Chief Procurement Officer or Designee is authorized to debar or suspend a Company from bidding on all JEA procurements for actions described in Subsection (2) of this Section. This authority shall be exercised in accordance with Operational Procedures and with the advice and counsel of the Office of the General Counsel.
- (2) Debarment. After reasonable notice to the Company and a reasonable opportunity was provided for the Company to be heard, the Chief Procurement Officer, after consultation with the manager of the Organizational Element, shall have authority to debar a Company from consideration for the Award of Contracts. The debarment shall be for a period of no more than three (3) years.
- (3) Suspension. After reasonable notice to the Company and a reasonable opportunity was provided for the Company to be heard, the Chief Procurement Officer, after consultation with the manager of the Organizational Element, shall have authority to suspend a Company from consideration for Award of Contracts. The suspension shall be for a period not exceeding six (6) months.
- (4) Causes for Debarment or Suspension. The Chief Procurement Officer's decision to debar or suspend a Company shall depend on the seriousness of the adverse actions of the Company. The causes for debarment or suspension include, but may not be limited to, the following:
 - (a) conviction of a Public Entity Crime and inclusion on the State of Florida Convicted Vendor List pursuant to Section 287.133 F.S.;

- (b) violation of Contract terms or requirements, as set forth below, of a character that is regarded by the Chief Procurement Officer to be so serious as to justify debarment or suspension action:
 - (i) deliberate failure, without good cause, to perform in accordance with the Contract, Specifications, performance levels, warranty provisions, bonding and insurance requirements, or to comply within the time limits provided in the Contract, or failure to pay subcontractors; or
 - (ii) a recent record of failure to perform or of unsatisfactory performance in accordance with the terms of one or more JEA Contracts, including the delivery of Supplies, provided that the failure to perform or unsatisfactory performance was not caused by acts beyond the control of the Company,; or
- (c) poor performance as reported under JEA's Vendor Performance Program;
- (d) debarment or suspension by another governmental entity;
- (e) the Company acted fraudulently or in bad faith;
- (f) violation of JEA and the City of Jacksonville Ethic Code;
- (g) violation of Ex Parte requirements; and
- (h) any other cause the Chief Procurement Officer determines to be so serious and compelling as to affect the Company's performance of a Contract.
- (5) Decision. The Chief Procurement Officer shall issue a written letter to the Company informing it of the decision to debar or suspend that Company. The decision shall:
 - (a) recite all relevant facts,
 - (b) state the reasons for the action taken,
 - (c) state the timeframe for debarment or suspension, and,
 - (c) inform the debarred or suspended Company involved of its rights to administrative review as provided in this Article.
- (6) Notice of Decision. A copy of the decision under Subsection (3) of this section shall be mailed or otherwise furnished immediately to the debarred or suspended Company and any other party intervening.
- (7) Finality of Decision. A decision under Subsection (3) of this Section shall be final and conclusive, unless fraudulent, or the debarred or suspended Company appeals administratively to the Procurement Appeals Board in accordance with Section 5-304 (Protest of Suspension or Debarment Proceedings).

COMMENTARY:

It is strongly encouraged the Office of General Counsel is consulted prior to the commencement of debarment or suspension of a Company. Debarments involve situations that involve a greater degree seriousness, harm, or damage to JEA.

5-103 Authority to Resolve Contract and Breach of Contract Controversies

- (1) Applicability. This Section applies to controversies between JEA and a Company (the "Parties") that arise under, or by virtue of, a Contract between the Parties and cannot be settled in the normal course of business to the mutual satisfaction of the Parties and after reasonable attempts by the JEA Project Manager to resolve the matter. This includes but is not limited to, controversies based upon breach of Contract, mistake, misrepresentation, failure to perform, payment disputes, or other causes for disputes concerning the Contract terms.
- (2) Authority. Prior to commencement of an action in a court concerning the controversy, the Chief Procurement Officer or Designee is authorized to settle and resolve a controversy described in Subsection (1) of this Section. This authority shall be exercised in accordance with Operational Procedures and with the advice and counsel of the Office of the General Counsel.
- (3) Decision. If such a controversy is not resolved by mutual agreement, the Chief Procurement Officer or Designee shall promptly issue a decision in writing. The decision shall:
 - (a) recite all relevant facts;
 - (b) state the reasons for the action taken; and
 - (c) inform the Company of its right to administrative review as provided in this section.
- (4) Notice of Decision. A copy of the decision under Subsection (3) of this section shall be mailed or otherwise furnished immediately to the Company.
- (5) Finality of Decision. The decision under Subsection (3) of this section shall be final and conclusive, unless fraudulent, or the Company appeals to the Procurement Appeals Board in accordance with Section 5-306 (Contract and Breach of Contract Controversies).

COMMENTARY:

- The word "controversy" is meant to be broad and all encompassing. It includes the full spectrum of disagreements from pricing of routine Contract changes to claims of breach of Contract.
- (2) Resolving controversy is a primary duty of the JEA Project Manager assigned to the Contract. Controversies resolved by the JEA Project Manager in the normal course of business are not the subject of this section.
- (3) Subsection (2) gives the Chief Procurement Officer the authority to settle all Contract claims and controversies prior to the filing of a suit. This may avoid unnecessary litigation and often is essential for fair treatment of a Company contracting with JEA. On the other hand, some safeguards are needed. Limitations upon the power to settle, including prerequisite approvals, should be established by appropriate Operational Procedure.

5-201 Remedies

The provisions of this part apply where it is determined administratively, or upon administrative review, that a solicitation or Award of a Contract is in violation of this Code.

5-202 Remedies Prior to an Award

If prior to Award it is determined that a Solicitation or a proposed Award of a Contract is in violation of this Code, then the Solicitation or the Award shall be:

- (a) canceled; or
- (b) revised to comply with this Code.

39

5-203 Remedies After an Award

If after an Award it is determined that a Solicitation or Contract is in violation of this Code, JEA shall take the following actions:

- (a) if the Company awarded the Contract has not acted fraudulently or in bad faith:
 - (i) the Contract may be ratified and affirmed, provided it is determined that doing so is in the best interest of JEA; or
 - (ii) the Contract may be terminated.
- (b) if the Company awarded the Contract has acted fraudulently or in bad faith:
 - (i) the Contract may be declared null and void;
 - (ii) the Company may be debarred or suspended; and/or
 - (ii) the Contract may be ratified and affirmed if such action is in the best interest of JEA, without prejudice to JEA's rights in regard to such damages as may be appropriate.

 - (b) Section 5-102 (Authority to Debar or Suspend); and

5-302 Jurisdiction of the Procurement Appeals Board

 - (i) if an action has been initiated previously in the courts for essentially the same cause of action, or

- (3) Timeliness. An appeal shall be submitted forty-eight (48) hours of receipt of a written decision pursuant to Section 5-101(3) (Authority to Resolve Protested Solicitations and Awards-Decision). Failure to submit a timely written appeal shall result in the appeal being dismissed.
- (4) Acknowledgement. In accordance with the Operational Procedures, a JEA representative will contact the protesting Company to acknowledge receipt of the appeal and to schedule the Procurement Appeals Board Review Meeting.
- (5) Standard of Review. The Procurement Appeals Board shall conduct a de novo review of the issue(s) presented for appeal and shall determine if JEA's intended actions are:

Said appeal shall be sent to the Chief Procurement Officer who shall forward it to the Procurement Appeals Board.
- (5) Standard of Review. The Procurement Appeals Board shall conduct a de novo review of the issue(s) presented for appeal and shall determine if JEA's intended actions are:
 - (i) in conflict with JEA's Procurement Code and Operational Procedures;

 - (iii) capricious;

TITLE:

REAL ESTATE SERVICES PROCUREMENT DIRECTIVE

REVISION DATE:

May 26, 2016

POLICY STATEMENT:

Pursuant to JEA Charter, JEA may sell, lease or otherwise transfer, with or without consideration, any property, real or personal, when in JEA's discretion it is no longer needed or useful, or such sale, lease or transfer is in the best interest of JEA. It is the policy of JEA to acquire, manage, and dispose of interests in real or personal property for utilities system use and expansion or for other uses in an expeditious and economical manner, with a minimum of risk.

JEA recognizes the procurement and sale or lease of Real Property, Tangible Personal Property, and related easements is sufficiently different from the procurement of other supplies and services required by JEA. This Procurement Directive supplements JEA's Procurement Code to provide JEA staff with the authority to make timely procurement commitments and to effectively participate in these markets. The directive applies to all property rights, real or personal, or any estate or interest therein, to be acquired or for the use of the utilities system by purchase, condemnation by eminent domain proceedings, exchange or lease.

The CEO designated Tangible Personal Property Procurement Officer for JEA tangible personal property is responsible for the implementation and maintenance of this Procurement Directive as it relates to the lease of JEA tangible personal property.

- 3. The Procurement Officer may Approve Purchases of $50,000 or Less: If the negotiated purchase price is $50,000 or less, the acquisition may be approved by the Procurement Officer. The Procurement Officer may request review by OGC or the Vice-President to whom Real Estate Services reports. Records of property transactions may include the following: a comparison of the negotiated price, the appraised value of the property, the assessed value of the property, Real Estate Services estimate of value, and/or statements of any conflicts of interest of Board members or JEA employees.
- 4. The Procurement Officer may Approve Donations of Property to JEA: If a property owner donates a parcel to JEA, the Procurement Officer may approve the acquisition. Real Estate Services will coordinate all legal and transfer requirements of the acquisition.

SUMMARY OF FEE SIMPLE ACQUISITIONS:

Purchase Price	Approving Entity
> $500,000	Board
> $50,000 to $500,000	Awards Committee
$50,000 or less	Procurement Officer

II. REAL PROPERTY CONDEMNATION ACTIONS.

A. Background and Additional Guidance.

JEA will use condemnation procedures under the power of eminent domain for acquisition of real property rights only as a last resort. JEA is vested with the power of eminent domain under authority of Article 21, Charter of the City of Jacksonville, Chapter 92-341, Laws of Florida, as amended, and Chapter 361, Florida Statutes. Statutory provisions for eminent domain procedures and supplemental proceedings are found in Chapters 73 and 74, Florida Statutes.

B. Board Approval is Required for All Condemnations.

After determining that the property cannot be purchased by negotiation and upon direction by the Procurement Officer, Real Estate Services will submit legal descriptions of the required property to OGC. OGC will prepare a Resolution authorizing condemnation to be presented to the Board. Real Estate Services will prepare the endorsement memo for the CEO's signature requesting the approval of the Resolution. Real Estate Services will present the endorsement memo and Resolution to the Board for consideration. If the Resolution is approved by the Board, Real Estate Services, on behalf of JEA, will initiate condemnation proceedings by sending the following to OGC: a certified copy of the Resolution, the survey, the appraisal, title commitment, a copy of the Board approval, and statements of any conflicts of interest of Board members or JEA employees. Condemnation preparation and proceedings are managed and implemented by OGC and Real Estate Services. If a settlement is negotiated, the settlement amount will be presented for approval to the appropriate approving entity consistent with levels of approval stated for fee simple acquisitions in Section I.

III. DISPOSITION OF REAL PROPERTY.

A. Background and Additional Guidance.

JEA will dispose of interests in real property that are no longer needed or useful to JEA.

B. Preparation to Declare Real Property Surplus.

In declaring property surplus, the Procurement Officer must certify that such real property is no longer needed by JEA. The Procurement Officer makes this determination by notifying JEA departments that may have an interest in the real property that it is being considered for surplus disposition. If no JEA departments have a present or future use for the real property, Real Estate Services will notify other municipal agencies of the availability of the property. If another municipal agency has a need for the real property, Real Estate Services will arrange for transfer of ownership consistent with the approval levels outlined in this Procurement Directive. If no municipal agencies have present or future use of the real property, Real Estate Services may notify adjoining property owners and may sell the property according to the procedures in Section IIID below.

C. Levels of Approval and Respective Approving Entities (Board, Awards Committee, Procurement Officer) for Dispositions.

- 1. Board Approval is Required to Sell Surplus Real Property when the Assessed Value OR the Negotiated Sale Price is More Than $500,000: When either of these situations occurs, Real Estate Services will submit a resolution to the Board for its review and approval. The Resolution for Board consideration may summarize relevant purchase information and may include the following: a comparison of the negotiated price, the appraised value of the real property, the assessed value of the real property, JEA's investment in the property, minimum sale price, and/or statements of any conflicts of interest of Board members or JEA employees. The Resolution will request that the Board declare the real property surplus to the needs of JEA and the real property may be sold at the price stated in the resolution.
- Awards Committee Approval is Required to Sell Surplus Real Property when the Assessed Value OR the Negotiated Sale Price is $500,000 or Less but More than $50,000: When either of these situations occurs, Real Estate Services will submit an Award to the Awards Committee for review and approval. The Awards Committee may, at its discretion, forward such a request for Award to the Board for its review and approval. The Award submitted to the Awards Committee for consideration may summarize relevant purchase information and may include the following: a comparison of the negotiated price, the appraised value of the property, and the assessed value of the property, JEA's investment in the property, minimum sale price, and/or statements of any conflicts of interest of Board members or JEA employees. The Award will request that the Awards Committee declare the property surplus to the needs of JEA and the property may be sold at the price stated in the approved Award.

3. The Procurement Officer May Sell Surplus Real Property when the Assessed Value AND the Negotiated Sale Price is $50,000 or less: When both of these situations occur, the Procurement Officer may declare the real property surplus and authorize the sale of the surplus property upon terms and conditions acceptable to the Procurement Officer. The Procurement Officer may request review by OGC or the Vice-President to whom Real Estate Services reports. The Procurement Officer's determination may include, but not be limited to, a review of the following: a comparison of the negotiated price, the appraised value of the real property, the assessed value of the property, JEA's investment in the property, minimum sale price, Real Estate Services estimate of value, and/or statements of any conflicts of interest of Board members or JEA employees.

 - e. Sale of real property will be made to the highest and best bidder after approval by the Board or the Awards Committee, as appropriate.

- f. Upon receipt of the purchase price in cash or by cashier's check, or upon receipt of the mortgage or other instrument evidencing the terms of sale if other than for cash, the JEA shall execute and deliver to the purchaser an appropriate instrument of transfer of title to the real property.
- g. If an offer at or above the minimum sale price is not received in the solicited bids or if the sale is not concluded successfully, Real Estate Services may, subject to the proper levels of approval, rebid the property, dispose of the property by public auction, enlist the services of real estate brokers to sell the property, or sell the property by direct sale after negotiation with any prospective purchaser. In no event shall property be sold for less than the assessed value as recorded by the Property Appraiser without approval by the Board and City Council.

Public Auction for the sale of Real Property Assessed for More Than $50,000.

- a. When the Procurement Officer determines that sale of real property assessed for more than $50,000 by public auction is in the best interests of JEA, the Procurement Officer shall certify that the property is surplus to the needs of JEA, and Real Estate Services shall present a resolution to the Board or Awards Committee, as appropriate, to have the Board or Awards Committee declare the property surplus and authorize the sale of the property for a price not less than the price stated in the resolution.
- b. Real Estate Services may engage the services of a qualified real estate auctioneer to hold a public auction to sell real property to the highest and best bidder.

- d. The public advertisement will set forth the date, time and place of the auction, the amount of the minimum acceptable bid and any additional bid requirements as may be prescribed by Real Estate Services.
- e. As soon as is practicable after the auction, and upon receipt of the purchase price in cash or by cashier's check, JEA shall execute and deliver to the successful bidder an appropriate instrument of transfer of title to the property.
- f. If the property is not sold at the public auction, Real Estate Services may, subject to the proper levels of approval, solicit sealed bids for the property, auction the property, enlist the services of real estate brokers to sell the property, or sell the property by direct sale after negotiation with any prospective purchaser. In no event shall property be sold for less than the assessed value as recorded by the Property Appraiser without approval by the Board and City Council.

3. The Sale Price for Real Property Assessed for $50,000 or Less.

IV. EASEMENTS AND AGREEMENTS RELATING TO REAL PROPERTY.

A. Background and Additional Guidance.

The levels of approval and the respective approving entities delineated below will be used when JEA is granting certain rights or acquiring certain rights in connection with real property. Consistent with the needs of each transaction, JEA will clearly define the scope of JEA's rights and the rights of other parties.

B. Levels of Approval and Respective Approving Entities (Board, Awards Committee, Procurement Officer).

When the rights under consideration have a Fair Market Value in excess of $50,000, Real Estate Services will confirm OGC support of the action and will prepare a resolution for presentation to the appropriate entity for its consideration of the requested right.

- Board Approval is Required for Rights Valued at More Than $500,000. If the negotiated purchase price is more than $500,000, a resolution will be presented to the Board for its consideration after a review by OGC. The request for Board consideration may summarize relevant purchase information and may include the following: a comparison of the negotiated price, the appraised value of the property, and the assessed value of the property, and/or statements of any conflicts of interest of Board members or JEA employees.

V. LEASES - REAL OR PERSONAL PROPERTY

A. Background and Additional Guidance:

This Directive shall apply to leases of Real Property or Tangible Personal Property, whether JEA is lessee or lessor. The Real Property Procurement Officer will negotiate terms including rental rates with the prospective lessee or for JEA as lessor of real property interests. The rental rates are generally at current market value, established at the time of initial lease by an appraisal prepared by an outside real estate appraiser or by a survey of real estate values and market rates conducted internally. The Tangible Personal Property Procurement Officer will negotiate terms of use and lease agreements with prospective user or lessee of JEA tangible personal property.

TITLE:

Fuel Management Services Procurement Directive Procurement of Fuels, Emission Allowances, and Associated Transportation

EFFECTIVE DATE:

August 18, 2014

Revised: August 28, 2017

POLICY STATEMENT:

JEA employs a staff of professionals in its Fuel Management Services (FMS) Department that develops and administers cost-effective strategies for the procurement of fuel, emission allowances, and associated transportation.

JEA recognizes that the procurement of fuel, emission allowances and associated transportation is sufficiently different from the procurement of other supplies and services required by JEA. This Procurement Directive supplements JEA's Purchasing Code to provide JEA staff with the authority to make timely procurement commitments and to effectively participate in fuel, emission allowance, and transportation markets. It governs the procurement of fuel, emission allowances and associated transportation notwithstanding any provision in JEA's Purchasing Code or current Florida State Statute to the contrary.

ASSIGNMENT OF RESPONSIBILITY:

The Manager of Fuels Management Services is hereby designated by the Managing Director/CEO to serve as the Procurement Officer for Fuels Management Services in accordance with the JEA Purchasing Code, Section 2-201, Procurement Code Exemptions.

In addition to other duties assigned under this Procurement Directive, the Procurement Officer for Fuels Management Services will be responsible for establishing effective processes and procedures to carry out the policies of this Procurement Directive. The Procurement Officer may delegate duties associated with this directive to personnel within JEA, as appropriate.

DEFINITIONS:

Unless otherwise specified herein, all terms used herein will have the same definition specified in the JEA Purchasing Code.

Generating Fuels – Fuel or fuel-related product used in the generation of electricity by JEA including, but not limited to, petroleum coke, coal, limestone, natural gas, #6 residual fuel oil, and #2 diesel fuel oil.

Resale Fuels - Procurement of fuel with the intent to resell.

Fuels - Generating fuels and resale fuels are collectively referred to as fuels herein.

Emission Allowances – Trading credits associated with JEA's activities in purchasing, generating, using, or providing energy. Emission Allowance markets include but are not limited to sulfur dioxide (SO2), nitrogen oxides (NOx), and carbon dioxide (CO2).

PROCEDURE:

The following procedure augments the JEA Purchasing Code. At the option of the Procurement Officer for Fuels, FMS may procure fuel, emission allowances, and associated transportation in a streamlined approach. When market conditions and time constraints allow a standard bid and award process, FMS may utilize Solicitation Review Committee (SRC) and/or Award Committee involvement. Additionally, the Procurement Officer for Fuels shall ensure there are properly appropriated and budgeted funds prior to all items being procured.

I. Public Notice

- Due to the nature of fuel procurement, FMS is not required to advertise individual bid solicitations. FMS will, however, provide general notice on JEA's website of its ongoing intent to engage in future bid solicitations and will solicit bids from those known suppliers on the FMS Bidder List.
- FMS will seek potential suppliers of fuels, with the exception of natural gas, via JEA's website. FMS shall direct newly known suppliers to the JEA FMS Bidders List online application. FMS will attempt to solicit for bids from all suppliers on the appropriate FMS Bidders List.
- A bidder's list is not appropriate for natural gas, transportation or emission allowances.
 Therefore, FMS shall pursue market opportunities to meet JEA's needs for these commodities.

II. Terms and Conditions

- FMS will develop and maintain a "terms and conditions" document for the supply of each Fuel, as appropriate.
- FMS will periodically revise its terms and conditions as appropriate for use in subsequent Fuel procurements.
- FMS will distribute the current terms and conditions to prospective bidders contained in the bid list for each Fuel.
- In each bid solicitation for Generating Fuels, FMS shall make reference to the terms and conditions specific to which is being procured. The terms and conditions become part of the contract document.
- In a Resale Fuel contract, the terms and conditions will be referenced and provided to customer. The terms and conditions become part of the contract document.

III. Procurement of Fuels, Emission Allowances, and Associated Transportation FMS will use a competitive bidding process when soliciting for bids. The time available for procurement of fuels, emission allowances, and associated transportation is typically less than that required by JEA's conventional procurement process. Due to the nature of fuel, emission allowance, and transportation markets, FMS staff must request, receive and evaluate bids, and consummate a procurement contract in a much shorter time frame than required in the standard procurement process. Therefore, at the option of the Procurement Officer for Fuels, FMS may solicit bids, use a broker, or utilize a combination of both methods to expedite the transaction. As market conditions and time constraints allow, a conventional bid and award process as described in the JEA Purchasing Code may be utilized.

- Accelerated Bid Procedure If a short turnover is required, FMS shall use an accelerated bid process to procure the Generating Fuel by issuing a request for bid via email to all those on the appropriate FMS Bidders List. All those on appropriate FMS Bidders List shall receive the request for bid. Under this method, FMS will receive bids directly for quick evaluation and award.
- Acceptance of Unsolicited Offers JEA may enter into contracts based on an unsolicited offer for fuels, emission allowances, and/or associated transportation without using the competitive bid process. JEA may engage in negotiations with the party who provided the unsolicited offer to improve the terms, conditions and/or pricing. FMS will be allowed to take advantage of unsolicited offers when such procurements are determined to provide operational and/or economical advantage to JEA and acceptance of such offer is in JEA's best interest.
- Cooperative Procurement JEA may participate in, sponsor, conduct, or administer a cooperative procurement agreement for the procurement of fuels, emission allowances, and/or associated transportation with one or more public or utility industry partners in accordance with an agreement entered into between the participants, when such action is deemed to be in JEA's best interest.
- Loan or Sale JEA may loan or sell fuels, emission allowances, and/or associated transportation when it is in the best interest of JEA to do so. JEA will be reimbursed for expenses incurred and compensated at fair market value for services or product loaned or sold.

IV. Contract Approval

Prior to contract execution and approval, FMS shall follow approval guidelines and authorization limits contained in the Energy Market Risk Management Policy.

- Procurement Approval of Contracts of $1,000,000 or more in Total Value:
 All actions taken under this Procurement Directive for these contracts will be approved by the Procurement Officer for Fuels, the Chief Financial Officer, and the Vice President/General Manager Electric Systems, or their designees unless Awards Committee approval is utilized as described below.
- Procurement Approval of Contracts of Less than $1,000,000 in Total Value:
 All actions taken under this Procurement Directive for these contracts will be fully documented by FMS and approved by the Procurement Officer for Fuels or their designee unless Awards Committee approval is utilized as described below.

Awards Committee Approval:
 As market conditions and time constraints allow, at the option of the Procurement Officer for Fuels, FMS may take a procurement action to the Awards Committee for approval.

V. Documentation

FMS shall follow these documentation requirement as well as any additional requirements as stated in the Energy Market Risk Management Policy.

- Contract Term of One Year or Greater:
 FMS will provide original contract documents to the Manager Procurement Contracts
 Administration and will maintain a copy and all supporting documentation.
- Contract Term of Less than One Year:
 FMS will maintain original contract documents and all supporting documentation.

VI. Execution of Documents

All documents to be executed on behalf of JEA pursuant to this Procurement Directive may be executed by the Managing Director/Chief Executive Officer, their designee, or the Procurement Officer for Fuels.

VII. Right to Protest

Any actual or prospective bidder who is aggrieved in connection with a solicitation or an Award of a Contract may submit a protest in accordance with the JEA Purchasing Code. Nothing contained in this Fuel Management Services Procurement Directive limits a bidder's ability to submit a protest in accordance with the JEA Purchasing Code.

VIII. Effective Date:

This revised Procurement Directive is effective upon its approval by the Managing Director/CEO.

IX. Appointment

I hereby designate Randall Van Aartsen, Manager, Fuels Management Services, as the Procurement Officer for procurement actions made under the authority of the Fuels Management Services Procurement Directive.

TITLE:

Byproduct Services Procurement Directive Byproduct Marketing and Management

EFFECTIVE DATE:

December 20, 2010

POLICY STATEMENT:

JEA employs a staff of professionals in its Byproduct Services Department (BPS) that develops and administers cost-effective strategies for the marketing, transportation, beneficial reuse, installation and disposal of Byproducts

JEA produces Byproducts through its normal operations. In efforts to support JEA's environmental sustainability initiatives, and to obtain the best use of rate payer dollars, JEA may either beneficially reuse or landfill Byproducts. In efforts to beneficially reuse the Byproducts, JEA may apply for certification from appropriate state agencies in Florida and other States, may certify contractors to handle the Byproducts in accordance with the certifications received, may sell the Byproducts for use within the certifications, and may procure existing landfill space or lands for landfill purposes in accordance with procedures that will best serve JEA. JEA may operate a landfill for Byproducts through use of JEA forces, or may contract for services relating to operation of a landfill for Byproducts using methods which will produce the best result for JEA, including requiring that contractors operating landfills be certified and experienced in the use of both the Byproduct materials and in landfill operation.

JEA recognizes that the marketing, transportation, beneficial reuse, installation and disposal of Byproducts are sufficiently different from the procurement/management of other supplies and services required by JEA for the following reasons:

- Coal combustion Byproducts (CCB) are an environmentally sensitive material evoking emotional discussions from the media, customers and environmental stakeholders.
- Marketing/beneficial reuse of JEA's Byproducts is a competitive process where judgments on fair market prices, sources of competition and competitive materials require quick action and immediate responses.
- Beneficial reuse of JEA's Byproducts is an environmentally sensitive process.
 Misapplication or misuse of the Byproduct by a contractor or end-user results in responsibility for the ultimate disposition of the material coming back to JEA. Using certification criteria, past performance and staff judgment as to which contractor is suitable for specific projects is imperative.
- Disposal of JEA's Byproduct can be expensive and environmentally sensitive. When a need to dispose of Byproduct arises, quick competitive pricing and staff judgment as to which landfills can supply the quantity, price and minimize exposure is imperative.
- Any use or disposal of JEA's Byproducts can evoke emotional health concerns.
 Although JEA's Byproduct is vastly different from traditional CCB's, and extensive

BPS Procurement Directive Page 1 of 5 testing and analysis has been performed on the health effects, BPS needs to be able to make subjective determinations as to the applicability of a project, contractor or market.

This Procurement Directive supplements JEA's Purchasing Code to provide JEA staff with the authority to make timely procurement commitments and to effectively participate in opportunities to market, transport, beneficially reuse, install and dispose of Byproducts. It governs the marketing, transportation, beneficial reuse, installation and disposal of Byproducts notwithstanding any provision in JEA's Purchasing Code or current Florida State Statute to the contrary.

ASSIGNMENT OF RESPONSIBILITY:

The CEO designated Procurement Officer for Byproducts is responsible for the implementation and maintenance of this Procurement Directive.

The Procurement Officer for Byproducts will conduct business in compliance with the JEA Purchasing Code, the Management Directive for Byproduct Services, the Byproducts Services Procurement Directive, and the Byproduct Services Operational Procedures.

DEFINITIONS:

Unless otherwise specified herein, all terms used herein will have the same definition specified in the JEA Purchasing Code.

Byproducts - Materials resulting from the process of generating electricity including, but not limited to, bottom ash, bed ash, fly ash, and gypsum.

BPS Operational Procedures – Internal operating procedures of BPS which support this Procurement Directive. These procedures are developed and maintained by the Procurement Officer for Byproducts and may be modified from time to time by the Procurement Officer for Byproducts. These supporting procedures will maintain consistency with this Procurement Directive.

PROCEDURE:

The following procedure augments the JEA Purchasing Code. At the option of the Procurement Officer for Byproducts, BPS may market, install, beneficially reuse, dispose and transport byproducts in a streamlined approach. When market conditions and time constraints allow a standard bid and award process, BPS may utilize Solicitation Review Committee (SRC) and/or Award Committee involvement.

The BPS Operational Procedure will provide detail for each item below.

I. Public Notice

Due to the unique nature of Byproducts, BPS is not required to advertise individual bid solicitations.

BPS Procurement Directive Page 2 of 5

II. Management of the Marketing, Transportation, Installation and Disposal of Byproducts

A. Use of Competitive Bid Procedures

BPS will use a competitive bidding process when soliciting for bids. The time available for management of Byproducts is typically less than that required by JEA's conventional procurement process. Due to the unique nature of byproduct management, BPS staff must request, receive and evaluate bids, and consummate a procurement contract in a much shorter time frame than required in the standard procurement process. Therefore, at the option of the Procurement Officer for Byproducts, BPS may use one of the following methods as appropriate for a specific procurement action:

- Accelerated Method BPS may distribute a bid form to prospective bidders that references the current terms and conditions document. Under this method, BPS will receive bids directly for quick evaluation and award.
- Conventional Method As market conditions and time constraints allow, a conventional bid and award process as described in the JEA Purchasing Code may be utilized.

As market conditions and time constraints allow, at the option of the Procurement Officer for Byproducts, BPS may take a procurement action to the Awards Committee for approval or may use the approval process detailed in Section IV.

B. Acceptance of Unsolicited Offers

JEA may enter into contracts based on an unsolicited offer for the marketing, transportation, beneficial reuse, installation and disposal of byproducts without using the competitive bid process. JEA may engage in negotiations with the party who provided the unsolicited offer to improve the terms, conditions and/or pricing.

BPS will be allowed to take advantage of unsolicited offers when such procurements are determined to provide operational and/or economical advantage to JEA and acceptance of such offer is in JEA's best interest.

C. Loan or Sale

JEA may loan or sell generating byproducts, when it is in the best interest of JEA to do so. JEA will be reimbursed for expenses incurred and compensated at fair market value for services or product loaned or sold.

Byproduct loan or sale opportunities may be assigned for some time period to another department. Regardless of any assignment, byproduct loan or sale opportunities will be governed by the terms of this Procurement Directive.

BPS Procurement Directive Page 3 of 5

D. Cooperative Procurement

JEA may participate in, sponsor, conduct, or administer a cooperative procurement agreement for the procurement of generating byproducts, with one or more public or utility industry partners in accordance with an agreement entered into between the participants, when such action is deemed to be in JEA's best interest.

III. Contract Approval

Procurement Approval of Contracts of $1,000,000 or more in Total Value

All actions taken under this Procurement Directive for these contracts will be approved by the Procurement Officer for Byproducts, the Vice President of Fuels, Purchased Power & Compliance, the Chief Financial Officer, and the Chief Operating Officer, or their designees unless Awards Committee approval is utilized as described below.

B. Procurement Approval of Contracts of Less than $1,000,000 in Total Value

All actions taken under this Procurement Directive for these contracts will be fully documented by BPS and approved by the Procurement Officer for Byproducts or their designee unless Awards Committee approval is utilized as described below.

C. Awards Committee Approval

As market conditions and time constraints allow, at the option of the Procurement Officer for Byproducts, BPS may take a procurement action to the Awards Committee for approval.

IV. Documentation

Contract Term of One Year or Greater

BPS will provide original contract documents to the Procurement Services Contracts & OGC Liaison and will maintain a copy and all other documentation in BPS files.

B. Contract Term of Less than One Year

BPS will maintain original contract documents and all other documentation in BPS files.

V. Execution of Documents

All documents to be executed on behalf of JEA pursuant to this Procurement Directive may be executed by the Managing Director/Chief Executive Officer, their designee, or the Procurement Officer for Byproducts.

INTER-OFFICE MEMORANDUM

January 7, 2019

SUBJECT:	DEMAND PRICING PILOT UPDATE – THE FUTURE PLATFORM
FROM:	Aaron F. Zahn, Managing Director/CEO
TO:	JEA Board of Directors

BACKGROUND:

In the 57 years leading up to 2006, only 3 years resulted in year over year sales declines for JEA. Our business has changed dramatically since then. Driven by lower per capita consumption, electric sales have decoupled from economic growth, and the impacts of energy efficiency and the growth of distributed generation will continue to put downward pressure on electric sales in the future. Electric utility rate structures like JEA's, in place for more than 100 years, recover most fixed infrastructure costs through a variable, volumetric rate.

DISCUSSION:

So what does a capital intensive, high fixed cost business, caught in a flat to declining unit sales market do? Create a pricing platform for the future that provides Revenue Stability to deliver positive Customer Impact promoting efficient System Utilization. If our rate structure matches our cost structure, we can fairly apportion to each customer their share of the cost to use the electric system which means we create an active customer-partner who uses the grid more efficiently, driving down the costs for all. It will position JEA to have a sound foundation that is resilient and innovative to handle market disrupters like technology, energy efficiency and Distributive Energy Resources (DER).

RECOMMENDATION:

The item is presented for information.	No action is required by the Board.

Promote a compensation philosophy that is contradictory to JEA's philosophy of providing a total rewards package that encompasses salary/wages, retirement benefits, incentives and health and welfare benefits.

Salary/wages will meet the market (50% percentile), which is where the majority of companies in the geographical area reside. Additional consideration will be given to behaviors that exceeds expectations which are typically rewarded at the 75th percentile. JEA's five core values set the bar for how we conduct ourselves at work every day:

- Safety: Since many of our employees work out in the field in dangerous jobs using dangerous machinery, safety tops our list of core values. Our safety plan is a "Plan for Zero" incidents at J&A no matter the department. Every employee is expected to adhere to all safety regulations and to be sure their co-workers do, too. No job is so important that it's worth anyone getting hurt. We want everyone to go home the way they came to work.
- Service: Providing excellent service to our customers is a constant expectation. But we also value service to our community. We all live and work in this area and most of us are JEA customers. We volunteer with a spirit of service to build community because it's our community,
- Growth: We expect our business to grow. Now more than ever we need to be flexible and adapt to the changing utility industry. We need new lines of business and we need our business to grow as our industry evolves. We also expect our employees to be life-long learners and we provide the training and individual growth and development here at JEA for them to accomplish this.
- Accountability: This is not to be confused with responsibility. We are all responsible for an activity or process, but accountability is more than that. With accountability, we are each responsible for the activity and the outcome.
- Integrity: Open, honest, fair, and ethical integrity ties all the other four values together. It's how we act toward our colleagues, our stakeholders and above all our customers.
